Members of the Orange County Coast association will hear a report on operations of purse seining craft along the coast of Southern California when they meet at Huntington Beach Tuesday night.

Leslie Kimmell, chairman of the association, has lodged a protest with the State Fish and Game commission against operations of the purse seiners. They are operating at night and catch fish in violation of state game fishing laws, it is claimed.

County Garbage Law Hit By Court

Judge Haines' opinion held that counties "may regulate disposition and transportation of garbage, but may not discriminate as to the origin."

"It is as discriminatory against the inhabitant of another county," he wrote, "to forbid him to dispose of his garbage in Orange county, as it would be to exact from him a higher license fee . . . than would be required of a resident. Likewise it is as clearly a discrimination against an inhabitant of another county to forbid him to obtain garbage from adjacent counties, where he can get it more cheaply than in his own county. . . . The existence of the county line in a particular position has no relation to the evil which the ordinance apparently seeks to remedy. In the circumstances, the ordinance provisions appear to be purely arbitrary and by that token unenforceable."

The ruling leaves the county supervisors in their attempts to control hog ranches in the county, with only such ordinance provisions as those licensing hog ranches and applying regulatory measures for their operation, such as disposal of refuse.

Attorneys Charles D. Swanner represented Lyons in the case. Associated with him were Hugh Madrox, Long Beach, representing the county and N. Feeding company, and Thomas L. McFadden, of Anaheim, representing other ranchers.

Pilot Killed In Plane Crash

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—(UP)—A naval reserve scouting plane crashed in San Francisco bay south of the San Mateo bridge yesterday, killing Lt. William Morgan Holsenbeck, 30, Wilder, Ga., junior flight officer for Pan American Airways and veteran flyer, and seriously injuring his mechanic, Robert A. May, 18, Oakland.

The two men had taken off in their Grumman scout ship from Alameda airport on a routine flight and when they failed to report to the naval reserve base a search was started. May was found struggling through shallow water in the mudflats near the Alameda shore. He suffered a broken leg, a crushed face and possible internal injuries.

Cause of the crash was not known but an inquiry will be made into the accident by naval reserve authorities. The wreckage was towed ashore by two coast guard boats.

Distribute Huge Fortune

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—(UP)—Final distribution of the $42,000,000 estate of the late Henry T. Huntington, railroad executive and philanthropist, was ordered by probate court today following more than 11 years of legal procedure.

The final accounting revealed that after taxes and special bequests had been deducted, $18,834,031 remained to be placed in trust for the benefit of three children and six grandchildren, in accordance with the will.

In settling the estate, $8,000,000 was paid for state and federal taxes, and $2,000,000, the largest special bequest, was given to the Pasadena hospital, now known as the Huntington Memorial Hospital.

eral election. Republicans have been urged by many of their party leaders to forget political lines and vote for Petersen.

"BAROMETER STATE" HOLDS ELECTION

PORTLAND, Me., June 20.—(UP)—Maine went to the polls today to vote in the primaries on two partisan tickets and to set the stage in this "barometer state" for an election on Sept. 12 on the issue of the New Deal.

Republican Governor Lewis O. Barrows was expected to score an easy victory and renomination over State Senator Roy L. Fernald of Winterport. Former Governor Louis J. Brann, the state's New Deal spokesman and leader, is unopposed for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The primary campaign has been waged strictly along state lines, but Brann indicated by earlier statements that he will wage his fight for election on the claim that this traditionally Republican state needs a governor friendly to the New Deal. Maine and Vermont were the only states won by the Republicans in the Roosevelt landslide in 1936.

MAKES SAFE LANDING

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—(UP)—John Ferguson, 26-year-old naval flying cadet from San Diego, today told how he glided his small plane over five miles of water and nosed it over in a bean field, seriously injuring his girl companion, Ferguson, who escaped with minor injuries, said he had rented the plane to take Marian Hornbeck, 26, of Los Angeles, for a ride. When five miles at sea, he said motor trouble developed and he was forced to glide in.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED IN COUNTY WEEKEND ACCIDENTS

Four persons were injured, two critically, during the week end on Orange county highways. Police and hospital authorities received reports of five accidents.

At the intersection of Heim and Tustin avenues, a mile south-east of Olive, Saturday at 7:30 p. m., Mrs. Freda Rogers, 35, Brea; Miss Grace Marie Sorenson, 17, El Modena, and Miss Marjorie Carnes, 16, El Modena, were injured.

Miss Carnes is the sister of Ralph Carnes who, only recently was sent home from St. Joseph hospital, where he recovered from severe injuries received in an accident more than a year ago when a companion was killed. Miss Carnes is suffering from concussion at St. Joseph; she was the least seriously injured. Seven youths were riding with Young. None was hurt last evening at Marguerite and Coast highway, Corona Del Mar when a car operated by B. E. Van Hook, Long Beach, blew a front tire and hit a light pole.

Lobbyist Faces Trial In Court

Samish's refusal to appear before the grand jury last Thursday. Of more significance was the weekend announcement of District Attorney Otis D. Babcock that Samish would not be permitted to "blast" Gov. Frank F. Merriam at a public hearing set for Thursday. Babcock took the position that the public hearing is "reserved for the probe of legislators only," and any other information would be made behind closed doors.

Babcock's action closely followed Samish's denunciation of the Merriam administration and hurling charges of extravagance and mismanagement. Merriam denied the allegations, asked Samish or anyone else to provide proof of the charges and likewise the lobbyist to be caught in a gate always squeals.

Samish threatened "to blow the lid off" the political picture when he went before the jury. He will come to Sacramento Thursday on advice of his attorney, John Francis Neylan of San Francisco. Neylan said he had advised his client to leave Sacramento last week because "he had reason to believe that certain political interests were endeavoring to make a farce of the inquiry or quash the entire matter."

attorney asked the actress at the preliminary hearing. Miss Simon batted her eyes and murmured a weak "yes."

Golf Ball—Vetch "And didn't you instruct Miss Martin to cable Paris for a gold watch in the shape of a golf ball, and didn't you have the same initials engraved on this, and didn't you give it to the same person?"

Again the actress murmured a weak "yes." But asked later for whom the golden keys were purchased, the actress turned up her nose and said: "Wouldn't you like to know? Well, you never Guilty."

In a five-minute court appearance today, Miss Martin put an end to efforts to identify Miss Simon's admirer by legal means. She pleaded guilty to three of the 20 counts of forgery and grand theft with which she had originally had been charged, and asked for probation.

Miss Simon was not in court when her former secretary pleaded guilty.

Police News

Three local boys, charged with petty theft of Sunday newspapers, were released to their parents today. The boys assertedly confessed. One youth said he took 25 of the papers, then sold part of them to one of the other boys for six cents each, and the rest to the third boy for five cents each.

Arrested by San Pedro police, Hans J. Nelson, 42, of San Pedro, was returned to Orange county by Deputy Sheriff Bob Steinberger and booked at county jail on a charge he failed to support his minor children.

Joe Guerra, 25, Santa Anita Mexican colony, and Ben Nevarez, 28, Santa Ana, were arrested by Officers W. E. B. Sherwood and L. C. Rogers yesterday and booked at county jail on charges of fighting.

Wallace Duncan, San Dimas, and William Catton, Route 1, Corona, were fined $8 and $6 respectively, Saturday when they pleaded guilty in city court here to speeding charges. Judge J. G. Mitchell passed judgment. Lewis Olivas, Route 2, West Orange, was fined $5 for jumping a boulevard stop.

Three Santa Ana boys, 12, 13 and 15 years old respectively, held at juvenile home, escaped Saturday night and were still at large today. Eldest of the three had just been sentenced to serve a term at lone school for boys.

Charged with violating a section of the penal code which says any adult who loiters about school grounds where children are at play and attempts to talk to them is a vagrant, Leo Loomis, 313 South Lemon, Anaheim, was booked at county jail Saturday afternoon. Judge Frank Tausch of Anaheim set bail at $250.

tal by the Orange County Ambulance service.

George W. Gray, 20, El Modena, was driver of one car, Mrs. Rogers, the second. Gray's speed, it was asserted, was approximately 50 miles per hour. Mrs. Rogers was unable to say whether or not she made a boulevard stop, according to reports.

Selsa Romo, 27, Stanton man, was treated at county hospital yesterday for severe face lacerations and possible rib fractures, result of a two-car accident. Ralph Galiva, 4, Santa Ana, was treated at Santa Ana Valley hospital last evening after he was run down by a car operated by Joe Lara, 21, 914 Logan, Santa Ana, cut and bruised. None was injured Saturday at Bishop and Main, when cars driven by Bruce Young, Long Beach, and Edward McKinstry, Santa Ana, collided. Seven youths were riding with Young. None was hurt last evening at Marguerite and Coast highway, Corona Del Mar when a car operated by B. E. Van Hook, Long Beach, blew a front tire and hit a light pole.

itary aircraft and their stations "with the intent that it be used to the advantage of Germany."

Under Arrest These three already are under arrest under world war spying statutes.

Johanna Hofmann, a hairdresser of the German Liner Europa; Private Erich Glaser of the U. ## Wreck Death Toll May Reach 60 trapped. They died as the torrential stream swallowed the cars.

Swept 80 Miles Bodies washed out of the wreckage and were carried away. Some of them may never be recovered, rescuers said, and were probably buried in the silt. The body of one victim—a woman—was reported swept 80 miles down the torrent from the scene of the disaster.

J. J. Osie, assistant passenger agent of the Milwaukee railroad, arrived here by plane from St. Paul, Minn., and immediately made an inspection of the wreckage of the Olympian.

He announced that the death toll was known to be 40.

"Twenty bodies have been recovered and there are at least 20 more in the wreckage," he said. "There are 45 persons in Miles City hospitals."

Terrific Storm Had the train passed over the trestle 20 minutes before, it is unlikely the tragedy would have occurred, for witnesses said the stream was virtually dry at that time. Then up-country a terrific cloudburst broke and a 30-foot wall of water roared down Custer creek. It tore at the trestle, weakening the foundations. The train arrived shortly afterward.

Using acetylene torches, rescuers cut through a partially submerged tourist sleeper and removed 27 bodies. Mortuaries in the little range city of Miles City were taxed to capacity as each hour brought more bodies from the scene.

Forms Dam The water in the creek was estimated to be 15 feet at the time of the wreck. It was raging at such speed that large sections of the creek's banks were being torn away. When the train plunged into the torrent it formed a dam, and the water rose in depth to 30 feet, roaring over the tops of the coaches.

Hamper Rescue Work Rescuers, hampered by the rushing waters, which raced over the steel coaches with a noise like a waterfall, were unable to reach the bodies of some of the victims immediately.

When the crash came the engineer and fireman of the locomotive were instantly killed. Death came to the baggageman and the mail clerk. The conductor, dead-heading, also died.

The fatalities of the wreck were higher than the combined total of those killed in railroad wrecks during the year.

Tales of Heroism From those saved and those who escaped themselves from the disaster came tales of heroism and bravery along with the stories of tragic deaths.

J. R. Knight, an employee of the Continental National Bank of Chicago, praised highly the train crew and the bravery of the passengers.

One of the heroes of the wreck was Lewis Williams, a Negro porter. Several passengers testified to his unqualified bravery in assisting passengers out of smashed windows to safety.

CHET GROSS GREETED OLD NAVAL CHIEF

Officer Chet Gross, on patrol duty at the Eddie Martin airport during the show yesterday, was pleasantly surprised when his old commanding officer in the navy's air force, dropped out of the sky after a series of stunts and greeted him.

During stunts by the flier, Commander-in-Chief V. F. Grant of the Reserve base at Long Beach, Gross not knowing the flier's identity, remarked to a fellow police officer that the clever stunting "looks like the work of an old commanding officer of mine." A few minutes later Grant landed and greeted Gross. Gross flew with Grant in 1927, while they were connected with the airplane carrier, Langley. At that time, Grant was a lieutenant in the Navy. Gross reported that Grant was forced to land the ship here yesterday sooner than he expected because his companion, a navy seaman in the air unit, became ill from the stunting which included a series of power drives.

DAMAGE SUIT OPENS IN DISTRICT COURT

The $20,000 damage suit brought against the National Biscuit Company and William Howard Seppel, driver for that company, as the result of a traffic crash at Pine street and Orange avenue, Santa Ana, last January 21, came to trial today before a jury in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court.

Scott A. Smith asks $5191.55 for damage to his automobile, medical expenses of his wife, and other losses incurred as a result of her injuries. Mrs. Fern Scott, the wife, who was driving the Scott car at the time of the crash, asks $15,000 for her injuries and loss of earnings as a clerk.

Delegates Return From Convention

The local men who attended the parley were: J. W. Crill, of Garden Grove, president of the Orange County Production Credit association; Vernon C. Heil, Smelter; A. F. Schroeder, Orange; and W. D. Miller, Santa Ana, secretary manager of the local organization. High point of the convention was the report that 1,000,000 loans to farmers of the nation have been made for a total of $1,000,000,000. Delegates from Arizona and San Diego, Imperial, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura counties attended.

KELLOGG POST WINS DISTRICT TROPHY

Ernest L. Kellogg post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was awarded a trophy for the largest numerical gain in membership of any post in the district at the encampment of veterans at San Jose concluded last week. The district is comprised of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

This was the highlight of a report made by delegates James Sullivan and Glen D. Hendrickson at a meeting of the post held at the Knights of Pythias hall recently. Included in the report of the encampment made by Sullivan and Hendrickson was the adoption of a resolution to be sent to President Roosevelt recommending the enactment of legislation to provide drastic reduction in the existing immigration quotas and a resolution presented by the Orange County Council condemning the activities of the German-American Bund.

Fourteen delegates from Orange county attended various sessions of the encampment.

ESCAPED JUVENILES SOUGHT BY POLICE

Investigation of burglaries in Anaheim and Fullerton was under way today, with three boys who escaped from the county juvenile home Saturday suspected by police.

The Charles Jacoby residence at 924 East Center, Anaheim, was burglarized last night, with the thieves being frightened away when members of the family arrived home. The thieves broke two windows in gaining entrance and another window in escaping. While in the house they ate a quantity of cake and jelly. Two watches, an Eastern Star ring, and other articles were stolen.

Later, police found several of the articles in a refrigerator car in the Santa Fe yards after hoboes had told of seeing the boys in the railroad yards.

The White Spot cafe at 145 East Commonwealth avenue, Fullerton, was burglarized some time last night, candy, doughnuts and cookies being stolen. A cigar machine and a gum vending machine were damaged by the culprits. Fingerprints found in the cafe were those of boys, police reported.

VANDAL CHOPS DOWN YOUNG TREES IN CITY'S PARKWAYS

A vandal, believed to be a local, early yesterday under cover of darkness. The investigation by Officer Charles Wolford yesterday led him to believe that a sharp ax was used in cutting the trees down since in most instances but one blow of the implement was necessary to fell each one. Sometimes two blows were necessary on the larger trees, he said.

"Apparently, a right-handed man destroyed the trees," Officer Wolford said. "One tree was left standing at 1115 North Freeman; two at 1130 Lowell, and one each at 1112, 1016 and 1010 Lowell. Footprints indicated a man felled all of the trees."

FOUR LEAVE TO ATTEND PARLEY

Four prominent Orange county men will leave tomorrow to take part in the 1938 Western Regional Farm Bureau conference opening Thursday at Yellowstone National park.

D. Flaherty, former executive secretary of the bureau and now western regional director for the American Farm Bureau federation; and Frank Pierce, now of the California Farm Bureau Federation at Berkeley.

Orange county will receive national recognition on Friday when Crill is scheduled to make an address before the convention on "The Duties of Community Organizers."

Bringing Bees To County Expensive

One hundred and fifty stands of bees brought into Orange county by William Atchley of Uplands, California resulted in $50 fine against Atchley by Judge D. T. Hayden in justice court at Tustin.

A part of the fine was suspended for one year pending good behavior of the defendant. The complaint, filed by Roy K. Bishop, charged that Atchley had caused to be brought into this county colonies of bees without first obtaining an inspection certificate at point of origin affirming freedom from disease, as required by state law.

According to the apary inspector four of the stands of bees, so brought in, were found, upon inspection, to be infected with American Foul Brood, a disease which may cause serious losses to beekeepers if permitted to become established in an apary.

Judge McIntosh is presiding in place of Superior Judge James L. Allen. He will be in Santa Ana during the present week and throughout the month of July, in Judge Allen's place.

Bybee, plaintiff in today's case, asks $10,000 for injuries, $1000 loss of earnings and $200 medical expense, as the result of a collision between his motorcycle and Prewitt's car on East Chapman avenue near Placentia avenue, Placentia, last Halloween.

Lawrence and Willard Bybee and Carl Earl, another motorcyclist, were witnesses for the plaintiff today.

C. C. MEMBERS HEAR M'FADDEN

"There has been a drastic change in the operation of chambers of commerce during the last few years and chambers of commerce are now interesting themselves in assisting business men already established rather than in bringing in new business."

This was the theme developed by A. J. McFadden in an address before more than 100 members and guests of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce at noon today at the Green Cat Cafe, in the final membership meeting until the fall season.

McFadden, president of the state chamber of commerce, outlined the activity of that group in assisting business men through legislation and other state-wide programs.

"I urge the support of the local chamber because it has been our experience that strong local chambers greatly facilitate the activity of the state organization," McFadden said.

President Fred Merker gave a financial report in which he pointed out that the chamber in less than four years has unbundled itself of a debt of $4,200 and in addition has built a new chamber building costing $5,500, entirely paid for.

Harold Harrison, chairman of the membership committee, requested the members present to join him in a "visiting day" on Thursday during which active members of the chamber will devote the day to calling on prospective members.

HART DEVELOPS CITRON FRUIT

One of the "founders" of Southern California's enterprising Calavo-avocado industry, Edwin G. Hart, of La Habra Heights, won prominence in a recent issue of Time magazine, national news weekly, upon his successful development of a California citron fruit industry, the first in the United States. This new California fruit, which outwardly resembles a huge, unevenly-surfaced lemon, will add new color, flavor and appeal to not only fruit cakes but also to salads, fruit cocktails, desserts, mince meats, pastries and candies, according to its developer.

Year 'Round Uses Seen
To successfully compete against the duty-free imports of citron, and to harvest all of his fruit at optimum maturity, Hart is now harvesting bi-monthly and is operating his own bringing plant. Specially advanced bringing and candying processes, which Hart evolved, are being used. This new candied citron peel has an exceptionally beautiful natural-green color, a striking flavor and an unusual tenderness. The latter quality, according to Hart, is opening many new and year-around uses for his "Hart-Hill" citron. At La Habra Heights a quarter-million pounds of this new citron is expected to be harvested and candied by Hart this year from his 4000 trees. Greatly increased tonnages are expected yearly thereafter. The small, lemon-like trees, which are exceedingly tender to frost, are planted on terraced hillsides in La Habra Heights. This is an avocado-growing and suburban residential center, located between Whittier and Fullerton, and but half an hour of mountains, ocean and Los Angeles. Since 1924, Hart has developed several special citron varieties, superior to those in Sicily and Italy. Stanley M. West will supervise, and Calavo Growers of California will participate in, the marketing of this newly-promising Southern California fruit.

During the World War, 2280 churches were destroyed in France, and of these only about 500 have been rebuilt.

two miles at 5 p.m. by stop and go

In stop-and-go driving, you're always shifting gears.

When in "low," your engine makes about 12 turns for each turn of your wheels . . . in "second," about 8 . . . in "high," only about 4.

In "rush-hour" stop and go, your mile drive across town may be two miles to your engine—it depends on how much of the driving is in low and second gears.

Shell engineers found that getting away from a traffic stop can waste enough "undigested" gasoline to carry you 1/4 of a mile.

To cut this waste and cost, they found a way to rearrange the chemical structure of gasoline, making every drop of fuel usable to your motor under all driving conditions.

You can save on your stop-and-go driving costs by the regular use of Super-Shell. There's a Shell dealer near you.

TELETYPE USED TO LOCATE PHYSICIAN

Lack of telephone service between Santa Ana and Barton flats in the San Bernardino mountains failed to stop Dr. Margaret Baker from contacting her husband, Dr. Willis P. Baker, at 4 p. m. yesterday.

Calling the sheriff's office here, Dr. Margaret Baker explained that there had been no telephone service to Barton flats since the flood, that her physician-husband was there and was needed here in an emergency case. The local sheriff's officers contacted police teletype and they agreed to send a car into the mountains to find Dr. Willis P. Baker at once.

Church Members Hear Broadcast

ORANGE, June 20.—Members of the St. John's Lutheran church convened Sunday afternoon in the church to listen to a special broadcast from St. Louis, Mo., where the Missouri synod of the church is in session. The occasion was the celebration of the centennial of the landing of the Saxon pilgrims in St. Louis in 1838.

The jubilee Sunday service featured a speech by Dr. A. W. Behnken, and special music by combined choirs of St. Louis. It was reported by the Rev. A. C. Bode, pastor of the St. John's church. The broadcast was heard by Lutheran congregations all over the United States.

THE BABY AND OLDER CHILDREN

When the baby is on the way prepare the rest of the children for its coming. Arouse their love and sympathy so that when the baby comes they have no feeling of jealousy, but an affectionate willingness to serve him.

After the baby arrives try to give the other children, as far as possible, the same care and consideration they had from you before. By doing that they will not feel they are out of the picture. And since the baby will take up much of your time it is wise to let the other children stand by and share in the care of the baby. I have seen a little girl of four stand by her mother's elbow at bathing time and hold the soap-dish and be quite content. She was sharing in the care of the baby, and that made her feel useful and wanted and important.

Watch your speech. Say nothing that might make the other children feel slighted. No one should say, "So, Lizzie, your nose is out of joint since the new baby came, eh?" Such words are poisonous. They do infinite harm. Don't make an older child give what is his to the baby. The baby will soon reach for everything in sight. That is to be expected. But he is not to have everything he reaches for. He cannot have his little sister's picture book, or her doll. He cannot have his brother's Noah's Ark, nor his crayon box.

Instead of teaching the older children to give up their things, "because he is the baby," teach them to avoid giving the baby what he is not to have, but to give him something else that's attractive in its place. A baby's attention is fleeting. It is quick to shift and easy to catch. When he asks for the crayons give him a rattle. If you do this there will be peace. The children will accept the baby and like him.

It is important that the older children are not forced to give up their free time to play with the baby. There are exceptions, of course, but the older children have rights. Infants up to three months or so need no companionship save what their mothers supply. They need quiet and sleep and food and care. When they begin to clutch and to crawl, to stand up and to run about, and to need playmates, let them have them, but the playmates should be of their own kind, their own age, their own stage of development. The older children should not be made slaves to baby brother.

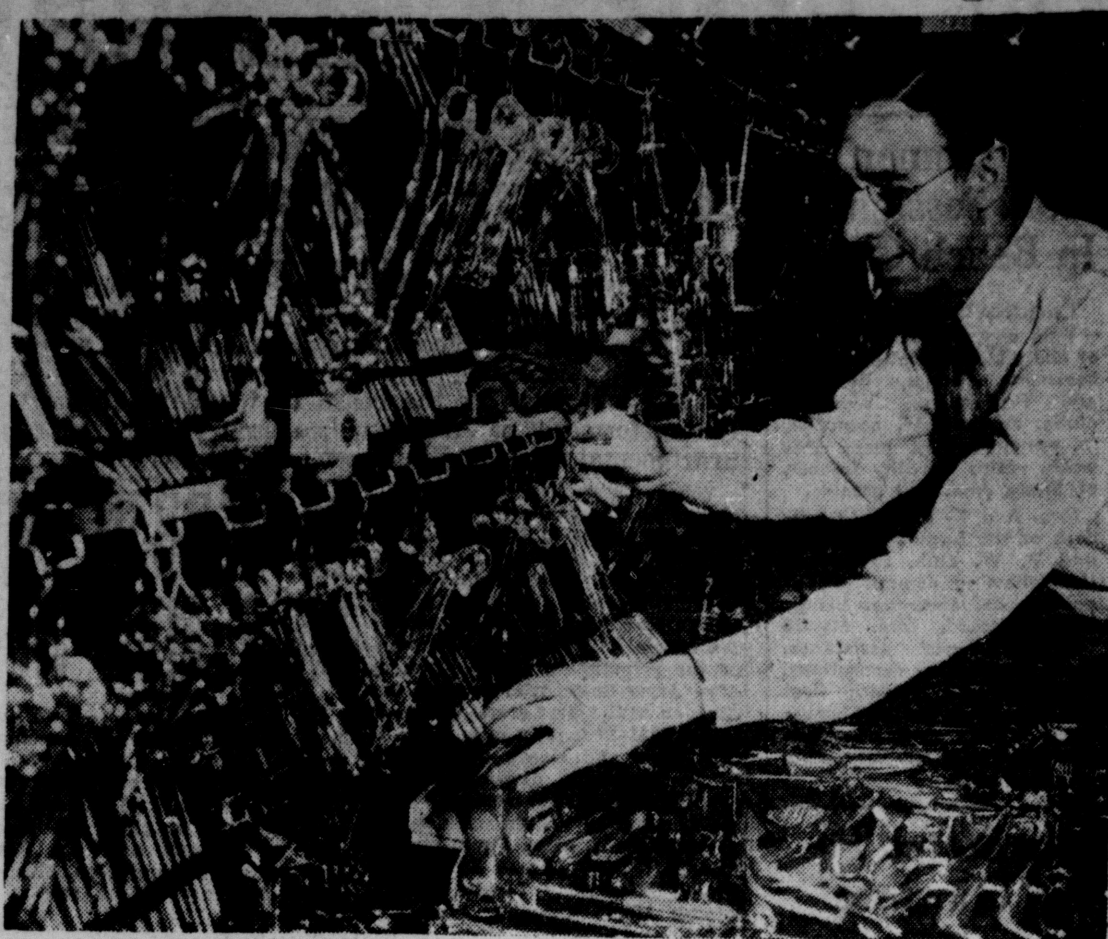

When the tiny tots shout and cry at each other, instead of playing the game, don't interfere. That is their way. They will shove and push each other about. Let them. When your little one comes to you howling loudly, "He hit me," look at him calmly and say, "That's too bad." Nothing more. Don't feel that you have to come to the rescue. Let him save himself and he will do a better job of it.

Be sure to make friends with the neighbors so that you may understand and help each other. Take turns in supervising the play of the little ones. Living is a matter of cooperation with others. Practice it yourself and the little ones will have friends when they need them.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Baby Carriages" in which he tells parents how to make the carriage ride a happy, profitable experience. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Going Nowhere; Just Draining Island

The old river steamer D. J. Peters has steam up and paddles spinning—but it isn't going anywhere. High water broke through a levee to inundate Mandeville Island, in the delta of California's San Joaquin River. The Peters with three other steamers went on the island area through the levee break. The break was repaired, and all now are churning water which runs off the island and back into the river through flames. When the big job is ended, the steamers will be ashore, and used as bunkhouses.

Police Recover Stolen Machine

ORANGE, June 20.—Three youths were frightened by an Orange police car which followed the stolen machine in which they were riding Saturday night, and abandoned the car, which was later returned to the owner, Mel Head, of Santa Ana, R. D. 1, who did not know that the automobile had been stolen. Officers V. G. Wolfe and John Elliste saw the 1938 Chevrolet being operated by someone apparently not used to the car, on West Chapman avenue about 8:30 p. m. The police officers followed it around the plaza and north on Glassell. They lost the car momentarily, then discovered it in the 300 block on North Olive street. The car was driven into a driveway, but was backed out when the police car turned a corner. When the police machine came back, the car was found to be empty. Passersby said that three boys jumped from the car and ran behind the M. M. Fishback residence. An extensive search failed to reveal the culprits. Head was notified and came to Orange for his car.

Child Slayer Is Sentenced To Die

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—(UP)—Charles A. McLachlan, 55-year-old house painter, today was sentenced by Judge Frank M. Smith to die in the lethal gas chamber in San Quentin prison for the sex slaying of 7-year-old Jenny Moreno last April 13.

McLachlan is the third slayer sentenced by Judge Smith to die in the gas chamber since establishment of that form of death penalty by the state of California. The other two condemned men are Edwin Spotts and William Martin, convicted holdup slayers.

Judge Smith, who tried McLachlan on his dual plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity without a jury, denied a defense motion for a new trial based on the contention that the state legislature exceeded its power in amending a section of the code to permit a court to pass on the sanity of a defendant.

In her purse were letters confirming reservations for her honeymoon tour. The guests shrieked, several women fainted, and the dark haired bride-elect stared at the man at her feet.

Nazi Purge Of Jews In Lull

BERLIN, June 20.—(UP)—The hysterical purge of unwanted Jews, which has sent hundreds to prisons and concentration camps in the past week, settled down to a systematic weeding out of undesirable elements today while the government once more turned its attention to Czechoslovakia.

One reason advanced for the sudden lull in anti-semitic terrorism was that elements within the Nazi party had exceeded themselves, that they had carried the campaign further than the government wished.

With this in view, it was asserted, government leaders sought to divert public attention from the anti-Jewish drive to the German minority problem in Czechoslovakia.

Text of Christian Science Lecture By Dr. Walton Hubbard

Dr. Walton Hubbard, C. S. B., of Los Angeles, a member of the Board of Lecturers of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, delivered a lecture in Santa Ana High School auditorium yesterday afternoon entitled "Christian Science: It's Healing Ministry," under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist of Santa Ana.

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

"Were it possible to call upon the students of Christian Science who form a large portion of this audience to explain the reason for their presence here and their allegiance to Christian Science, it would be found that most of them had been healed by Christian Science. The sicknesses which had defied other methods of treatment, and the range of these sicknesses which had been healed would be found to be so wide and so varied as to indicate with certainty that the law of God, as taught and applied in Christian Science, heals all manner of sickness and sin.

While the growth of the Christian Science movement has been exceptional since its discovery by Mary Baker Eddy but little more than seventy years ago, it would not doubt be much more rapid if the people knew the blessings it would confer upon them if they would study and practice it.

In approaching Christian Science one must be willing to give up preconceived notions and prejudices. In my own experience, in order to accept Christian Science it was necessary for me to recognize that the medical methods which I was using were effective only according to the degree in which they were believed; that is, that the result following the use of material means, when there is a result, is always mental, not material.

It is my intention not only to discuss the teachings of Christian Science, but to tell you something of my own observations in coming out of the practice of medicine and into the practice of Christian Science. Perhaps these observations may be helpful to some of you.

Mary Baker Eddy
A discussion of Christian Science may quite properly begin with its Discoverer and Founder, Mary Baker Eddy. Whatever I may say of her in the limited time at our disposal must of necessity be brief. I would earnestly recommend a study of her life. Several biographies are available at Christian Science Reading Rooms, and she has written something of herself in her book "Retrospection and Introspection." To understand how Christian Science unfolded in her consciousness will make it easier for it to unfold in yours.

Mary Baker Eddy was a woman of unusual spirituality and deep religious sense. She was a consistent and tireless student, an analytical student, and through years marked by sickness and trials her profound religious sense led her always to strive to see and to understand the infinite Principle in every blessing which she received. This persistent search for Truth was finally rewarded by the discovery of the divine laws of God, which she named Christian Science.

For three years following her discovery she devoted all of her time to a searching study of the Scriptures, seeking further unfoldment of this revelation. Quoting her own words from page 109 of Science and Health, she says: "I knew the Principle of all harmonious Mind action to be God, and that cures were produced in permitting faith; but I must know the Science of this healing, and I won my way to absolute conclusions through divine revelation, reason, and demonstration. The revelation of Truth in the understanding came to me gradually and apparently through divine power."

Jesus declared that spiritual perception is necessary in order to understand his teaching. On one occasion after declaring the grossness of their thought to be the reason the people could not understand him except he spoke in the simplest manner, he recommended the spiritual receptivity of his disciples by saying, "But blessed are your eyes, for they see; and your ears, for they hear." And may I say that the eyes and ears of Mary Baker Eddy were likewise blessed.

Her study of the Scriptures revealed the fact that the entire Bible record teaches conclusively that a right understanding of God has always brought dominion over all material conditions, and that when the knowledge of Truth has been correctly applied, it has always been attended by healing and regeneration. The Scriptures abound in evidence that to understand God brings healing. Especially is the New Testament replete with the statement of the liberty that comes, as Mrs. Eddy declares, through "a right apprehension of Him whom to know aright is Life eternal" (Science and Health, p. vii).

Key to the Scriptures
The fact that healing, and the knowledge of Truth by which it is to be attained, has been passed on to all mankind, has been due to no fault of the Bible in presenting it, but to our attitude of thought in approaching it. Because we had been educated to believe that physical healing must be brought about by material means, we had not deemed it possible that God provided spiritual healing from sickness and every form of error; so we studied the Bible with the view of substantiating our preconceived notions about what the Bible ought to teach. We were led through the study of Christian Science to stop viewing man as sick and sinning, and to accept the fact of his righteousness and dominion which is insisted upon throughout the Bible, and to endeavor to manifest this dominion over all things.

Luke says of Jesus' teaching, "Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures." It is the common experience of those who study Christian Science that their understanding is opened so that they understand the Scriptures.

Now there can be but one reason to account for the light that is thus thrown upon the Scriptures, and that is, that the teachings of Christian Science give the student the same spiritual viewpoint as that of the inspired writers of the Bible, and thus make their writings plain.

Mrs. Eddy has also provided Bible helps of immense value to the searcher for Truth. In this connection, an interesting thing about the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," is that the "Key to the Scriptures" is a separate and distinct part of the volume, with its own heading and flyleaf. It includes the chapters Genesis, Apocalypse and Glossary.

The opening statement of this latter chapter is very important. Let me quote it as follows (Science and Health, p. 579): "In Christian Science we learn that the substitution of the spiritual for the material definition of a Scriptural word often elucidates the meaning of the inspired writer. On this account this chapter is added. It contains the metaphysical interpretation of Bible words, giving their spiritual sense, which is also their original meaning." Note that Mrs. Eddy declares that the definitions of Bible words which appear in the Glossary are their original meaning.

Biblical writers seem to delight in metaphors, and in allegorical statements of spiritual facts. As students of Christian Science follow out Mrs. Eddy's instructions and substitute the spiritual for the material definition, the Scriptures are marvellously unfolded. In the chapters Genesis and Apocalypse, the latter being the Revelation of St. John, the author has commented upon and interpreted metaphysically many verses of the inspired writing.

The student of Christian Science possessing an understanding which is at one with the inspired writers, an understanding of the metaphysical meaning of Biblical words and terms as given in the Glossary and the metaphysical interpretation of Genesis and the Apocalypse, and with other Scriptural interpretations in which Mrs. Eddy's writings abound, finds himself in possession of the "Key to the Scriptures," and he recognizes clearly that primitive Christian healing has been restored to the world through the teachings of Christian Science.

Why is it so important that the healing of sickness should be brought about through the use of spiritual means? Would not the healing of sin be enough to expect of one's religion? It is the contention of Christian Science that the law of God inevitably heals all discord, and we are usually much more desirous of getting rid of sickness than of sin. We are unconsciously conscious of disease, while we frequently fail to recognize the most consuming mental disorders and sins. The application of Christian Science in the healing of disease enables us to become more proficient in its use, and more grateful for its blessings, and helps to awaken us to the need of destroying sin and every other discordant condition.

Disappointing Material Methods
The usual reason for people turning to spiritual means for healing is that the use of material means for the alleviation of their sicknesses have been so disappointing. The history of medicine over the past hundreds of years has been one of constant change. New remedies and new measures are constantly brought forth and marvelous things are claimed for them, only to be discarded later on for newer remedies or newer measures, in which, for the moment, there is greater faith. They are effective only to the degree in which they are believed.

At the time I graduated from medical college, a new and wonderful remedy was advocated for the treatment of pneumonia. Several medical journals were full of the records of the almost instantaneous cures which had come about through its use. The reports were from hospitals where there were many cases, and where every case received this same treatment which was said to be invariably effective. I cannot doubt but that the physicians who were using the remedy and reporting the cures were really having the marvelous results which they described, yet, within a year I tried it without the slightest result. It was effective in the hands of those who thoroughly believed in it, but of no effect in the hands of one with only mild expectation of its potency.

Another incident along this same line will illustrate this point further. An article describing a certain method of treatment appeared in a well-known medical journal. The physician who wrote the article was a man of my own acquaintance living in a distant city, and I wrote to him for further corroboration of the results which he claimed for his method. He declared that it was always successful with him, yet I could get no results although I carried out his instructions faithfully. Evidently he had full faith in the method and got results, while I was neutral in my thinking, which did not give it the necessary mental support.

A few years ago two well-known and reputable physicians brought forth a method of treatment which evidently was very highly successful in their hands in curing a prevalent disease which had largely resisted both medical and surgical efforts to heal. These physicians proceeded cautiously. They wanted to safeguard their method from any unethical exploitation. They established clinics in two large cities and carried on their work with the greatest ethical regularity and dignity. There was no hint of any mercenary motive, but rather the motive was evidently to help suffering humanity. At first the newspapers told stories of improvement in cases under treatment, but shortly nothing more was said. Three or four years later I came across a small item in a daily paper which mentioned the men and method and described their former clinical effort as a fiasco.

No doubt they had results while the method was supported by their own enthusiastic faith in it, and when it was sheltered from mental opposition during the experimental stages of its use. But the method could not withstand the negative thinking of a doubting medical profession, and so failed completely when it came out from under the sheltering wing of its sponsors.

Drugs and Faith

During the time I practiced medicine I discussed the use of drugs with my physician friends and discovered what at first was quite disturbing to me; that we all had our favorite drugs. Each one got good results from some drug which was without any results in the hands of another. Each one got results from the particular drug in which he had faith, and yet no one recognized that it was his own thinking which gave to the drug or took away from the drug its false claim of power to heal.

If you observe such things you will receive from time to time front-page newspaper statements of some great medical or bacteriological discovery which it is believed will accomplish wonders. Do not believe them. Reserve judgment. You may mentally pigeonhole such items, but do not accept them. Such statements only mean that a laboratory physician has become convinced that he has discovered or developed something; but whether or not it ever becomes established in medical practice depends on whether it can run the gauntlet of the pessimistic professional opposition which it will receive. There is a large mortality among such discoveries. Three or four years we may learn whether it has become an accepted medical belief or has lapsed into oblivion.

Sometimes in the continued changes that are coming about, there may even be a return in modified form to old methods thought to have been outgrown. Years ago blood-letting was thought to be a helpful procedure. But for a long time it has not been in vogue, having been discarded as a foolish and useless method, yet a new and revised form of it came to my attention quite recently. A certain man was suffering from what was said to be an inflammation of a nerve in his hand and arm. A physician who had just returned from post-graduate work abroad proposed to give the man a small transfusion of blood, claiming that it would heal the condition. The remarkable thing about it was that he proposed to take the blood from the patient, and then put it back again. In other words, the blood that was to effect the healing was already flowing in the patient's veins. I am unable to say whether there would have been enough faith in this procedure to show any result. Probably not, for it seemed unreasonable to the sufferer, and he turned to Christian Science for help and was healed.

In all that I have said there is not the slightest desire to criticize the medical profession. In the main, it is made up of great and good men who are honestly and earnestly endeavoring to alleviate sickness and suffering, and who are doing great good. But this does not alter the fact that the weapons of their warfare are carnal, while the weapons of Christian Science are spiritual.

Disease Is Mental

In practicing medicine, I soon found that there is a mental element in every case, and as it was obvious that this mental element could not be reached by any material means, I began to try to estimate just how large a factor the mental element was in every case that came to me. At first I thought that some diseases were quite largely mental, but as time went on, my observation of the mental side of the question became more keen, so that I saw that many types of sickness were wholly mental, and finally I came to see that they were all entirely and completely mental.

Now this did not mean that I became a Christian Scientist when I arrived at this point. It only meant that I had come to recognize that all disease is mental. However, since I had so large a mental question to deal with, which at that time the medical profession almost wholly ignored, I decided that I would study the question of mental healing from every standpoint from which it had been presented, with the view of finding in all these writings the presentation of the same principle. I was convinced that this would give me a broader view of the question than could be obtained from any single one of them, and that with this knowledge I would be able to accomplish healing. With this thought I studied everything I could find from mental therapeutics. Christian Science. And as I studied, I saw that they were all alike except one, and that one was Christian Science.

Christian Science was the only one that refused to admit that anything that God had made was imperfect, or could become imperfect; was sick when He created it, or had within it any God-given quality that could allow it to become sick. It was the only one in which there was no compromise with matter, and which dared to deny the reality of the material world, the flesh and the devil, and the carnal nature they are contrary to His creative perfection and spirituality. It was the only method that dared to deny the actual existence of anything unlike God, and it was therefore the only one that offered hope of healing after every material means had failed.

And yet, having arrived at this point I was filled with fear, for I saw that the spirituality of Christian Science would not mix with the materiality of my profession, and I did not want to give up the practice of medicine. But the leaving of Truth was working in my consciousness and I was drawn to it with greater and greater conviction until at last I gave up the practice of medicine and began the practice of Christian Science.

Learning to Understand God
Christian Science declares itself to be the law of God. It further-declares that this law is demonstrably true; that we may understand it, that we may apply it, and that the results will prove its truth. Obviously, if we are to understand God's law, we must first understand the nature of God. And in order that the nature of God may unfold in our thought, we must contemplate the Supreme Being, we must dwell upon His nature and character. Men have so contemplated God in times past, and they have called the Supreme Being by the name of the quality in which God has been revealed to them. So God is Elohim, the all-powerful. He is Jehovah, the eternal Being, who was and who is and who will be. He is Spirit, He is Life, Truth and Love. He is all of these because men recognized in Him the qualities and characteristics which these terms bespeak.

The Bible speaks of God as Spirit, as Life, as Truth and as Love. It also speaks of Him as the creator—that from which all proceeds. This thought is expressed in Christian Science by the use of the word Principle for God, since Principle is that from which all proceeds and by which it exists.

Mrs. Eddy has also given us the term Father-Mother, by which there is brought to consciousness the completeness of the divinity, the motherhood as well as the fatherhood of God, and also a larger thought of God as Love. When we think of God the Father, our thought of Him is limited by our earthly sense of fatherhood, which no matter how complete, is still lacking in the fullness of the qualities of love and tenderness which the mother-thought expresses. The word Spirit, as used in Genesis and the word which is translated Almighty God, had something of this same thought of motherhood, but through the difficulties in translating these words this phase of their meaning has been lost to us.

No matter by what term we may think of God, whether it be as infinite Life, or infinite Principle, or infinite Mind, a logical deduction as to the nature of man and the creation will always bring us to the same point—that of the eternal perfection of all that God has made, and the unreality of sickness and all that is contrary to His divine nature. The only way we can fail to arrive at this conclusion is by making no effort to understand the divine nature, and by insisting that the sicknesses and sins which we see about us are in some way in accordance with His infinite and loving design.

It should be obvious that infinite Life cannot be made manifest in death. Nor can infinite Life be made manifest in sickness, for sickness may ultimately lead to death. Infinite Life can only be made manifest in life and health.

God, who is infinite Truth, cannot be made manifest in sickness, for every idea of Truth is in absolute harmonious accord with every other idea of Truth, just as one mathematical truth is in harmony with every other mathematical truth. Infinite Truth can tolerate no inharmonious, even though it calls itself sickness and claims to be true.

God, who is infinite Love, cannot do less for His children than to manifest that Love and supply them with infinite good, and infinite good does not include sickness. What earthly father, as a manifestation of love for his child, would bring sickness upon it if he could prevent it? "If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask him?"

When we consider God as Principle, that is, that all proceeds from Him, we find it impossible to conceive of both sickness and health proceeding from this one infinite Principle, and yet there is no other source from which anything could come, for as John declares, "without Him was not any thing made that was made."

When we consider God as Mind, we arrive at this same conclusion, for the manifestation of Mind is thought, and the thoughts of infinite Mind are not sick thoughts, but perfect and healthful and holy.

Applying God's Law
Now, we have been discussing the nature of God, and our relationship to Him. Let us see if we cannot become sufficiently conscious of this relationship to destroy some erroneous belief which we may be entertaining. In my own experience I have found that the concept of God as Mind is the simplest one from which to reason. Mrs. Eddy has said on page 467 of Science and Health, "Reasoning from cause to effect in the Science of Mind, we begin with Mind, which must be understood through the idea which expresses it and cannot be learned from its opposite, matter." So, in undertaking to determine what man is, let us go back as far as possible to a beginning. And this beginning must be some absolute certainty. Some excellent results in healing have been obtained by simply declaring spiritual truths, but continued and consistent results are attained through an actual consciousness of Truth.

I am sure that we are all convinced that there is divine intelligence. We are just as certain of it as we are of our own existence. Who can contemplate the heavens without recognizing that there is divine intelligence? David realized it when he said, "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork." And there is a "e in one of our hymns to which we can all subscribe, "In beauty, grandeur, order, His handiwork is shown."

So we are certain of divine intelligence. But there can be no intelligence without Mind, for intelligence is the activity, the expression, the quality of divine Mind. If we are certain of intelligence, we must be just as certain of Mind, as certain of it as we are of our own existence.

It is evident that the sole and only function of Mind is in expressing ideas. On page 256 of Science and Health, Mrs. Eddy puts this fact in very concrete form by saying, "Infinite Mind is the creator, and creation is the infinite image or idea emanating from this Mind." Again, Mrs. Eddy declares on page 502 of Science and Health: "This creation consists of the unfolding of spiritual ideas and their identities, which are embraced in the infinite Mind and forever reflected. These ideas range from the infinitesimal to infinity, and the highest ideas are the sons and daughters of God." Surely we can entertain these truths with certainty and conviction.

Having then accepted these interrelated facts, let us take the next logical step and "move in" on this conclusion. That is, let us not only admit, but insist, that we are ideas in divine Mind.

Presuming, then, that we have admitted it, or better still that we have accepted it to the limit of our ability, let us take the consequences of this admission, this acceptance, and the consequences are portentous, for it means that in our real being, we are spiritual and perfect. It means that every function action and expression which we manifest, as children of God, comes from the one, perfect Mind in which we exist. Thus we are setting up a divine ideal in human consciousness, and it is essential that we do this, and that we make every effort to hold it, to permanently entertain it. With a clear realization of our true selfhood in Mind, we can see the falsity and deny the reality of any error which has gained admission to our thought.

Falsity of Matter

Whatever of strength the sicknesses and discords which fret and disturb human consciousness seem to possess, lies in the belief that they are conditions and effects of matter, and that matter is substance and is governed in all its conditions by laws pertaining to itself.

It would be much easier to be rid of sickness if we could gain the actual realization, through an understanding of Christian Science, that there is no matter. The proposition is very simple in its statement. It is this: since God is All, and God is Spirit, there is no matter. But in practice, it is not quite so simple, for the reason that we are so set on every hand by the insistence of the human or mortal mind that the supposed laws of matter are valid and real.

If we accept the proposition that divine Mind and its ideas constitute all reality, we have definitely done away with matter, because matter is not included in this spiritual declaration which defines the complete creation. So Christian Science definitely declares that there is no matter.

In logic this is obviously correct, but what are we going to do about it? How are we to account for all the objects and things which we have thought of as matter? Christian Science teaches that they are beliefs, false mental concepts, and it is perfectly logical in doing this; for it is evident that all reality is embraced in divine Mind and its idea, or, as the Christian Science textbook also states it, "God and His thoughts" (Science and Health, p. 114).

Any other thoughts which we accept are but lies about God's thoughts. The objects of sense which we call matter, and the material body, are included in this category. They are beliefs. They do not express God's nature or perfection.

The recognition that the things which we have called matter are not matter, because there is no matter, and that they are but beliefs, does not change their qualities. A piece of wood is just as hard and just as heavy when it is seen as a belief as ever it was when it was thought of as matter. It is a form of mortal thought with various counterfeit qualities, which include form and color and size.

It should not seem difficult to recognize that there are forms of thought that we may see and touch as well as perceive. Through continued alertness in our thinking, we are able to see beliefs where before we saw material objects, and the strength of an error is more readily broken when it is seen as a deceptive belief, and not as matter.

It should be noted that Mrs. Eddy uses the word belief to indicate the counterfeit of, or lie about an idea. Thus it never indicates other than that which is falsely mental. Great care should be taken to see that when we call a material object a belief, we really recognize it to be falsely mental and cease thinking of it as matter. Remember that belief is not another name for matter; rather that matter is another name for belief. To recognize the body as a belief, a part of human consciousness, and not as matter, begins at once to free us from the laws of matter, and makes it easier to heal the body.

Divine Mind
Having set forth a method by which the nothingness of matter becomes more evident to us, let us again declare the spiritual facts about God and His man in an effort to further realize man's perfection.

Let us begin with Mind. We are certain of infinite Mind because we see unquestioned evidences of divine intelligence. We recognize that divine Mind can only be expressed in the human mind, and that these ideas are as perfect as the Mind which forms them, hence that man is altogether perfect and spiritual. In Miscellany (p. 242) Mrs. Eddy declares, "Unless you fully perceive that you are the child of God, hence perfect, you have no Principle to demonstrate and no rule for its demonstration." We can realize our perfection now, and we can apply it to some sense of sickness, or discord, or lack. We can become conscious that there is no such entity as matter, that its supposed laws are all false, that its claims are all deceptive, and that in the light of our realization of that which is true about us, we can effectively deny them and refuse to believe them, and we can demonstrate the healing.

Let us not look too long or too closely at error—just a sidelong glance. Just enough to deny that which needs to be destroyed. Then let us return in thought to the contemplation of our true being. Mrs. Eddy writes in Science and Health (p. 495): "When the illusion of sickness or sin tempts you, cling steadfastly to God and His idea. Allow nothing but His likeness to abide in your thought." She tells us that we should cling steadfastly to God and to His perfect man. Be careful not to cling steadfastly to sick and sinful man through much denying of error together with little realization of Truth.

Having applied Christian Science in any given condition as prayerfully, as thoughtfully, and as completely as we know how to do, we should let the power of Truth operate without wondering every few moments if it is working or if there is anything left unthought or undone. The old saying that "a watched pot never boils," is just another way of saying that impatience makes the result seem slow. In appearing in Christian Science, impatience and anxiety are definitely deterring thoughts and should be destroyed. The child of God is neither impatient nor anxious. On the contrary, he is serene and fearless in the consciousness of his at-one-ment with God. Does a healing seem delayed, and are hope and faith at a low ebb? Remember that God's child expects only good. He has never experienced anything but good, for there is nothing but good in the divine Mind to expect. He is as certain of it as we are of tomorrow's sunrise. The sun has always risen in our experience and we are certain that it always will. So the child of God is fully expectant of good, and this realization builds up hope and faith. Christian Science is God's law, and its declaration and realization heal.

Christian Science Heals
Some who are unfamiliar with Christian Science might ask for proof that it heals, that it annuls so-called material laws. Let me cite one or two instances of healing which occurred in my own experience, where the result was such as to indicate quite definitely the setting aside of material laws. I recall the case of a young man whose arm was badly shattered by just below the elbow. Three physicians would not attempt to set it because, they said, the swelling was too great. The material laws that were declared about it were that the result would be a stiffened elbow, that the bones could never be set in proper position because the fracture was too close to the elbow, and that even with an imperfect result, the arm would not be able to use the arm for six months.

The result under Christian Science treatment was that the elbow joint was not stiffened in the slightest degree, that without any human effort to set the bones, an X-ray picture taken on the 20th day showed the bones so perfectly set and so completely healed that it was difficult to detect the points of fracture, and instead of this man being kept from work for six months, the healing was so complete in 20 days that he returned to his work. Mrs. Eddy has recommended in Science and Health (p. 401) that "Until the advancing age admits the efficacy and supremacy of Mind, it is better for Christian Scientists to leave surgery and the adjustment of broken bones and dislocations to the fingers of a surgeon." This was done in this case, but when material efforts failed, the realization that matter and matter's laws are only beliefs, which yield to the supremacy of divine Mind, brought about a perfect result and upset every material calculation.

Another case with which I am personally familiar is that of a young girl who was in an unconscious condition in the last stage of what a consultation of physicians said was tubercular cerebro-spinal meningitis. The child had had medical treatment from the inception of the disease. In this last extremity Christian Science was called for and the physician dismissed. The child began to recover at once, and during the recovery the physician who had previously been in attendance, hearing that the child had not succumbed, wanted to see her. I was informed that he declared he did not come to interfere; instead he said, "There is a miracle going on here, and I want to see it." Now, the medical belief in this case was that microscopic forms of vegetable life called germs had gained entrance to the membranes of the spinal cord and brain, and that they were growing and developing there, inflaming and destroying these portions of the body.

to the point where, according to material laws, death was inevitable. But Christian Science set aside these material laws. It destroyed their claim of destructiveness and inevitability. It proved them to be but lying beliefs, which were readily destroyed through the apprehension of spiritual facts.

And what do you suppose became of the germs that were said to be in there, causing all the trouble? When destructive thoughts are believed to be preying on the mental concept called body, and through Christian Science the conviction is entertained that right thoughts, God's thoughts, divine ideas, do not prey upon each other, what happens? Why, the lying beliefs disappear, and the destructive germs cease to be. Easy to see, if we realize that they are only beliefs, false mental concepts; but hard to see if we believe them to be matter. Fortunately, there is no matter.

Jesus' Healing

The various healings which Jesus the master Christian, brought about are of especial interest to those who are endeavoring to follow his command to heal the sick, for he instructed his disciples to go into all the world and teach all nations to do whatsoever he had commanded them to do, and he certainly commanded his disciples to heal the sick.

Among the recorded healings which Jesus brought about are several where the sufferers were said to be possessed of devils. It seems to have been the accepted belief of that time that the devils came from somewhere and entered into a man, who was possessed of them until they departed and entered into someone or something else. Of course, we all know that in this day a person so suffering is thought to have lost his mind, or to be demented. Now, Jesus healed his cases quickly and certainly. Christian Science also heals insanity today. It would be possible for me to tell of numerous healings. Yet, when Jesus healed his cases, he did not say to them, "Your belief is all wrong. Two thousand years from now the people will be very wise, and they will know that you are not possessed of devils, but that, on the contrary, you have lost your mind, and that is what ails you." No, that is not what he said. He said, "Come out of him and enter me no more into him." That is, he addressed his treatment to the belief of his time. Today, if the belief is that a man has lost his mind, we declare and realize that man possesses and reflects the one, perfect Mind which is infinite. And blessing.

So to each one who studies Christian Science, there comes some consciousness of the Christ. This dilates his treatment to the belief of his time. Today, if the belief is that a man has lost his mind, we declare and realize that man possesses and reflects the one, perfect Mind which is infinite. And blessing.

3000 ORANGE COUNTY TOWNSENDITES AT MEET

PENSION PLAN VICTORY SEEN

Three thousand Orange county residents joined with followers of Dr. Francis Townsend today to hear a denunciation of those who say their pension plan is "dead" and a prediction that they will have another 2,000,000 adherents by July 1.

The delegates, attending the third Townsend national convention in Los Angeles, were addressed by Capt. Russell R. Hand of the Townsend Washington legislative committee. He made the keynote speech.

"Conservatively speaking," Captain Hand said, "we should start on July 1 with at least two million willing workers."

"They say," he continued, "that the Townsend Plan is dead. But it's the most animated corpse anyone ever tried to bury. They who say the Townsend movement is dead, are only whistling as they pass their own graveyard."

Dr. Francis E. Townsend told 20,000 cheering followers in Memorial coliseum yesterday that business soon will unite behind his plan to finance an old age pension from a two per cent transaction tax. The elderly gray haired physician assailed present governmental methods of combating depression. He hit especially oppressive taxation and "interference" with business and industry.

Amelio Colantoni, producer and director of the La Scala Opera company, arranges a brilliant cast of artists for the first open air performance of "Aida" in Pasadena's famous Rose bowl, Saturday evening, June 25.

Well Known Singers

Richard Bonelli, baritone, and Bruno Castagna, contralto, both members of the Metropolitan Opera company and both well known among the music lovers, appear in leading roles. Eva Turner, soprano of Covent Garden, London, sings the title roles, and Jesus De Gaviira, leading Tenor of the Teatro Colon, Buenos Aires, has been selected for the role of "Rhadames." Tudor Williams, Ruth Hurst and other noted singers complete the cast of principals.

Maestro Pietro Cimini, internationally known conductor, will wield the baton over a specially selected symphonic orchestra of 100 players. Serge Oukrainsky and his ballet ensemble of 300 dancers will lend additional brilliancy to the evening's performance.

Egyptian Landscape

Technicians, artisans and expert craftsmen are transferring the vast amphitheatre of the Rose bowl into a veritable Egyptian landscape, and judging by the advance reservations, a capacity audience is expected.

As of May 1, 1938, there were 780 municipal airports in the United States; 275 army airdromes; 612 marked auxiliary fields, and 86 private fields.

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 20.—Idol Chatter: With the Hollywood track only one week old, the aggregate losses of movie celebs are estimated at more than a quarter of a million. Never saw a Filmville lady more obviously in love—with her own husband—than Grace Moore. Today's incongruity: Basil Rathbone, the meanest villain of them all, guzzling a bottle of soda pop between takes. Can't get used to the wrinkles and silver locks Tyrone Power is wearing in "Suez." Guess Margaret Lindsay is reconciled to the marriage of Alfred G. Vanderbilt—they had to use glycerine to make her shed tears on the set today.

Wonder why most actors who are college grads specialize in roughneck roles? Like old times with Charlie Farrell back on the Fox lot as a contract star. Ruffel reflections: A tigress deprived of her cubs is less vicious than a Garbo fan who has read a derogatory statement about her idol! Never see Mary Maguire without feeling a yen to visit the country that produced such beauty.

Funny how a film couple contemplating divorce always hit new highs in lovey-dovey talk—witness Luise Rainer and Clifford Odetts. Columbia's search for a "Golden Boy" is becoming as tiresome as the quest for a "Scarlet O'Hara." Maybe I'm wrong, but Danielle Darrieux looks to me like this year's greatest bet. One nice thing about Stan Laurel: He never gets a divorce or marries on Sundays.

That old adage, "Where there's smoke, there must be fire," seems to fit the case of Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone to a "T." Late rumors about a rift in their happiness have become so prevalent that I, for one, am beginning to look for the big, black headlines which will announce a final break. Joan, of course, denies everything with becoming indignation. But, I remember, she was equally indignant when her trouble with Doug Fairbanks Jr., was rumored. Hollywood's rumors have a strange habit of being true. In all the years I have been reporting in this town, I cannot remember one instance in which the grapevine was wrong. I hear that betters will give two to one that Joan will not be Mrs. Tone a year from now—but I don't think their odds are attractive enough.

Picked up an interesting tid-bit today about Jeanette MacDonald who is noted for the shrewdness with which she drives bargains. No matter what a producer offers her, she holds out for more—and nine times out of ten—gets it. Hollywood credits her with an unusually hearty appetite for money, but—here's the other side of the story: I had lunch with an advertising man who ruefully told me that she had just turned down his request for an endorsement of one of his products. "You should have offered her money," I suggested—and met a withering glance. "I did," he said, "fourteen thousand dollars for the use of one photograph! Would you call that chicken feed?"

A bouquet to Deanna Durbin: This morning she and Director Joseph Pasternack were watching the rehearsals of the orchestra which will appear in "That Certain Age." Pasternack suddenly noted that one of the violinists was not bowing in unison with the others. Stopping the rehearsal, he ordered the hapless fiddler to play alone. "I can't play a note," the man confessed, after a moment of confusion. "I lied to get this job. My wife is expecting a baby—and we have no money!" Deanna took the furious director aside and talked to him—and, in "That Certain Age" there will be one musician whose only worry will be the need of keeping his bow moving in time

TOWNSEND TO ATTEND BEACH DINNER

1000 EXPECTED FOR BIG MEET

Plans for a fish dinner at Newport Beach next Friday, with Dr. and Mrs. Francis E. Townsend as special guests, were announced at a mass meeting of clubs of the fifth supervisorial district Saturday night in the Mesa Townsend hall.

Selection of a Townsend candidate to run for supervisor in the fifth district was postponed by unanimous vote until a later date to be announced by J. H. Walsh, district manager.

Approximately 1000 guests, delegates to the national Townsend convention in progress in Los Angeles, are expected to attend the dinner. Orange county Townsend clubs will be hosts for the dinner, service for which will be from 11 until 2 o'clock.

Announcements included a county mass meeting scheduled for next Saturday evening in Santa Ana, when reviews of the national convention will be given by Col. Ralph D. Horton. At a session scheduled for 8 p. m. Friday in Anaheim, speakers will be O. J. Bouman and Roy Webb.

REPORT ON UNIT PLAN ARRANGED

A report of the progress of the Million Unit Fellowship movement will be an important part of the program of the Southern California conference of the Methodist Episcopal church when it meets June 22 at the First Methodist Episcopal church in Los Angeles for its annual sessions.

Bishop Oxman to Preside
Bishop G. Bromley Oxman of the Omaha area will preside at the conference and the Rev. Roy L. Smith will be pastor-host. The report of the Million Unit Fellowship movement will be brought to the meeting by Bishop George A. Miller, retired, of San Jose.

The Million Unit Fellowship movement aims to integrate and intensify the religious living of the Methodists. It also seeks a better financial underwriting of the mission and benevolence budgets of the denomination. Methodist missions at home and abroad, educational enterprises, philanthropies and reform efforts are known collectively as World Service.

Budget Increased
At the end of its first year of created this budget by 13.21 per cent. In this year of business recession the increase already has reached 12.4 per cent over that of 1937. Bishop Frederick T. Keeney of Chicago, director of the movement, reports.

The movement this year is seeking a total underwriting of one-half million "units" which would yield a total budget of about $5,000,000 for missions and benevolences.

Kuchel To Speak At Farm Meeting

A report of Farm Bureau business by Director Lester Schofield and musical selections by Miss Rosemary Ramm will also be heard at the meeting.

PET TALKS

By MRS. T. J. NEAL

Ancient coins dating back 2000 years bear the picture of the Great Dane dog. In those days, he was used for boar and deer hunting. Even today we find him the same agile hunter for this game. Regardless of his power and tenacity in the fight or hunt, he is docile and well-mannered and an ideal protector for children.

Never allow a kitten to lie about the floor in a draught. Beds off the floor are essential for rearing kittens successfully.

There is not a commercial product sold for the purpose of stunting the growth of dogs. Underfeeding or whisky will stunt the growth but what an unsportsmanlike thing to do!

When you buy goldfish do not carry them in a jar that has contained pickles. If you do, you are apt to arrive home with a pickled fish carcass.

City dog taxes are due. Pay with a smile and think how lucky we are that it's only one dollar. Your pet is surely worth that. If you lived in Italy you would pay $10 yearly license fee or you wouldn't own a dog very long. Probably this is to help pay for the recent Ethiopian war.

Riley To Tell Of Capital Trip

Supervisor Harry D. Riley will tell of his recent trip to Washington, D. C. and report on details of dams in this district at the regular meeting of the Placentia Farm Center at the Ann Marie tea room in Placentia at 6:30 p. m. tonight.

Director G. C. Darnall will give a report of farm bureau business and Leon T. Gillilan will preside at the meeting.

Adult Classes In Sewing Planned

The adult education department is offering a class in sewing under the direction of Mrs. Blanche Palmer. The class will open Wednesday, July 6, at the Lathrop Junior High school, 1120 South Main street. It will continue to meet each Wednesday from 2 to 5 p. m. through July and August.

BURGLARS ARE INVESTIGATED

Several Orange county burglaries were under investigation of police and sheriff's officers today. C. A. Smith, cafe operator at 101 highway and Newport road, said five cartons of cigars valued at $8 were stolen, apparently by juveniles who entered the place during the week-end.

Anaheim police early today reported two burglaries were committed, one Saturday night, another last night, probably by the three youths seen near the scenes of the crimes. C. H. Arnold, San Juan Capistrano service station operator, told sheriff's officers this morning someone broke into the station last night, taking some of his service station property.

Officer Tom Towns of Orange relayed a call from Santa Fe railroad agents to sheriff's officers early today in which it was reported that five box cars were broken into while being hauled between Los Angeles and San Juan Capistrano last night.

Hold Fullerton School Program

FULLERTON, June 20.—The 255 seniors of the Fullerton Union High school received their diplomas of graduation at exercises Friday afternoon.

The program started with a group of band numbers, directed by Dudley Nashold.

The Rev. L. I. Champe of the Christian church pronounced the invocation and the combined high school glee clubs, directed by Miss Ruth Tilton, with Miss Dorothy Pratt accompanying, sang "To the spirit of Music" by Stevens, and "Service" by Cadman.

After the commencement statement by Harold E. Hale, president of the board of trustees, and the valedictory address by June Schumacher, on "A Place in the World," Dr. Walter R. Hepler, president of San Diego college, talked on "Modern Pioneers."

A. S. Redfern, principal of the school, presented the class to Dr. Louis E. Plummer, superintendent of schools, who delivered the diplomas.

If the right type of lubricants is used, a car may be broken in during the winter.

GRAND OPERA TO OPEN BOWL

For the first time in the history of Hollywood bowl, the summer season of Symphonies Under the Stars will open with a performance of grand opera. Richard Wagner's famed "Die Walkure," with Maria Jeritza singing the lead, will be the work to initiate this, the 17th festival season on July 12.

Repeat Performance
Exceptional advance interest in the opera production has caused another departure from past procedure, for the opera will be given a repeat performance on the following night, July 13. In the past there have been repeat performances but they have always been at the conclusion of the regular season.

Maria Jeritza, glamorous soprano, who will sing the role of Brunnhilde; Richard Hageman, conductor, and Mrs. Leland Atherton Irish, manager of the 1938 season, yesterday conferred on plans for the double presentation.

Supporting Jeritza in the cast will be Paul Althouse, American born tenor of the Metropolitan opera, who will sing Siegfried; Greta Steuckgold, soprano, assigned the part of Seiglinde; Friedrich Schorr, famous baritone, who will portray the difficult role of Wotan; Douglas Beattie, bass of the San Francisco opera, Hunnigton, and Maria von Essen, mezzo-soprano, Fricka.

Eight Los Angeles artists will fill the roles of the Valkyrie maidens. Armando Agnini of the San Francisco opera, and stage manager of the operas in the bowl, is now busy completing plans for a lavish staging of the famed opera.

Christian Science

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" This question was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The golden text was from the Psalms: "Our help is in the name of the Lord, who made heaven and earth."

One of the Bible citations included Paul's words to the Corinthians: "Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise. For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, He taketh the wise in their own craftiness. And again, The Lord knoweth the wise, that they are vain."

A passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "The true theory of the universe, including man, is not in material history but in spiritual development. Inspired thought relinquishes a material, sensual, and moral theory of the universe, and adopts the spiritual and immortal."

After the commencement statement by Harold E. Hale, president of the board of trustees, and the valedictory address by June Schumacher, on "A Place in the World," Dr. Walter R. Hepler, president of San Diego college, talked on "Modern Pioneers."

A. S. Redfern, principal of the school, presented the class to Dr. Louis E. Plummer, superintendent of schools, who delivered the diplomas.

If the right type of lubricants is used, a car may be broken in during the winter.

On Homage Bent

Wearing a patch over his "war souvenir" eye, but smiling, General Astray, leader of the rebel forces in bloody Spain, is pictured above as he made his way through crowded streets of Rome to pay homage at the tomb of Italy's Unknown Soldier on Italian Spanish Day.

DR. KNOPE TALKS ON WEEKLY SERIES

Arrangements have been completed to present Dr. Carl Knopf of the University of Southern California on the Willard Evening high school lecture program next year. Dr. Knopf will give a weekly series of lectures on Bible Literature, beginning Thursday, September 29.

Dr. Knopf last Sunday delivered the baccalaureate sermon for the Junior College graduating class. His services next fall have been secured in response to many requests from those who attended his lectures last winter at the Methodist church night program, it is said.

Smedleys Leave For Vacation

Ralph Smedley, Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. secretary and his family left Friday for San Francisco, where they will vacation for one week. Mr. Smedley will attend the Rotary convention and conduct Toastmaster club business on the trip. The remainder of the time will be spent in sightseeing and visiting with friends and relatives.

By switching the front tires to the rear wheels, and vice versa approximately every few thousand miles, you will get the maximum wear from your tires. The rear tires get the most wear.

ARREST SIX AS DRUNK DRIVERS

Six men were arrested in Orange county during the week-end and looked at county jail on drunk driving charges.

John Patton, 36, Orange, convicted in Fullerton, was sent to jail for a 37½-day term. George Enchinas, 43, Delhi, arrested by Orange police, was jailed early yesterday while Anaheim police arrested Fred Peck, 53, 123 South Ohio, Anaheim, last evening.

California Highway Officers Charles Wolfe and Harry Wild nabbed Tommie Brunson, 31, Route 3, Santa Ana, in Huntington Beach township. Yesterday afternoon, Benny Cruz, 34, El Modena, was arrested here by Officers W. E. B. Sherwood and L. C. Rogers, pronounced "very" drunk, then jailed. Thomas Le Fevor, 38, North Hollywood, was arrested by Officer George Boyd early yesterday at Edgewood and Main. His companion, Fred Holtree, 42, nurse at El Toro CCC camp, was jailed on a drunk charge.

OVER THE TRANSOM

Santa Ana's Fred Merker (Gas Co.) seen chasing his straw hat at the Air Show yesterday along with a flock of other Orange countians who braved the wind and wore their "straws." . . .

If the interest shown before the jump of little "Bobbie", bantam rooster, was any indication he must have been the hit of the show. . . .

The Eddie Martin airport flyers were doing a land office business yesterday taking people up for one "buck" a throw. . . .

Nearly every police officer in Orange county must have been at the show, including a few from outside the county, and from the size of the crowd might well of needed more. . . .

Ernest Layton, Santa Ana City councilman seen sizing up the crowd on several occasions as he drove his car along the crowded runway. . . .

Officers Chet Gross and Bud Jones just a little bit worried when that Navy flier did a dive over their "bathtub." . . .

ANNULMENTS GRANTED

Two annulment decrees and two divorces were granted in superior court late yesterday, as follows: J. Morton Shannon from Mabel N. Shannon, divorce; Reginald Solis from Isabel Solis, divorce; Nora C. Cunningham from John W. Cunningham, annulment; Marjorie R. Perkins from Lewis A. Perkins, annulment.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

M. E. Chapel Is Scene Of Pretty Rites

Scores of friends assembled in First Methodist chapel Sunday afternoon for the 4 o'clock rites uniting in marriage Miss Elizabeth Corneyn Vaughan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Vaughan, 552 North Garvey street, and Herbert Woodard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woodard of Ukiah.

Miss Verna Osborn was at the piano for the wedding marches and other selections, also playing accompaniment for Miss Margaret Jaeger, violin soloist. Dr. C. E. Holman officiated at the nuptials during which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

An all white setting with a background of greenery had been arranged for the ceremony. Easter lilies, white gladioluses and larkspurs were especially effective in a setting where a heart-outline and a wedding bell furthered the romantic theme. Mrs. Thomas Tournat supervised decorations.

Miss Vaughan wore a white satin gown and a graceful veil with the daintiest of lace which belonged to the bridegroom's grandmother. The "something borrowed" was a handkerchief loaned by Mrs. Ann Cavan, while a touch of ribbon provided the "something blue" of her costume. Her bouquet was of white bride roses.

Mrs. Frank Mason, matron of honor, was in late tulle with a bouquet of gardenias and roses. Bridesmaids were Misses Betty Adams and Hazel Cartwright, in identical pink net and lace frocks, with bouquets of sweet peas, delphinium and other pastel-tinted flowers. Miss Patricia Mason, in pink net and Miss Carol Ann Neer in pink tulle, were charming little flower girls, and Dean Neer was ring bearer. It was the duty of Miss Nancy Ann Neer, wearing a pink lace frock, to light the tapers which added to the beauty of the altar setting. Louis Holman was best man. Ushers were Frank Mason and Delbert Beard.

In Pastels

The church social hall was the scene of the reception. Here the decorative details were in the softest of pastel tints, with flowers and flowers furthering the wedding motif. Decorated wedding cake was served with punch. Mrs. Vaughan chose a navy blue net frock with gardenia corsage bouquet. Miss Eupha Neer presided over the guest book. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Tournat, Mrs. Ray Snyder and Mrs. Noble Watson.

When the newly-wedded pair departed on a trip to Catalina, the bride was wearing a beige suit with Kelly green accessories. They have their home at 422 South Parton street all in readiness, and Mr. Woodard soon will take up his work at Beach's Packing company, Ocean View. He attended Santa Ana high school. The new Mrs. Woodard, who had her early schooling in Lexington, Mo., is a graduate of Santa Ana High school. She studied at junior college.

Luncheon Is Courtesy To Bride-Elect Of Leo Gibbons

Miss Isabel McCormac included a group of close friends in the guest list for a luncheon at which she entertained Thursday afternoon in courtesy to Miss Pauline Cave, whose marriage to Leo Gibbons will take place Sunday.

The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. W. McCormac in welcoming guests to the family home, 112 Church street. Their sister-in-law and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Halstead McCormac, lent her assistance during the afternoon, as did Miss Vera Beers.

Marking Miss Cave's place at the luncheon table was a gift of dillies from Mrs. McCormac and her daughter. The two also took this opportunity to present the bride-elect with the McCormac family's wedding gift of a pair of sterling silver candlesticks.

Blue hydrangeas and delphinium were combined effectively in the luncheon table centerpiece on a lace cloth lighted by pink tapers. Mrs. J. W. McCormac read ten commendations for the bride.

In the group were the Misses Joy Townsley, Mary Coffman, Doris Cave, Dorothy Newman, Dorothy Jenkins, Muriel Snyder, Helen Lowe; Mesdames Charles Carnett, L. E. Coffman, Clyde Cave and the honoree, Miss Pauline Cave; with the mother and daughter hostesses and their two assistants.

Former Classmates Are Guests at Shower For Bride-elect

Former Orange County Hospital School of Nursing classmates were assembled Friday night in the Tustin home of Mrs. Arthur Charlton in honor of Miss Louise Aiken, whose marriage to Curtis Fox will take place this week.

Soon after guests arrived, the hostess' young son, Master Bobbie Charlton, made his appearance wearing a clever little suit and top hat. He presented the bride-elect with a decorated wagon filled with miscellaneous gifts from the assembled friends. In addition, he gave Miss Aiken his mother's gift of a corsage bouquet of pastel-hued flowers whose tones blended nicely with the pretty frock which she was wearing.

Miss Violet Holter and Mrs. Zue Nelson won prizes for their high scores in games. Refreshments were served at tables decorated with miniature bride and groom figures. Pale pink roses adorned the dining room table, with its miniature bride couple. Gladioluses and snapdragons were arranged in tall baskets.

Present were the Misses Bonnie Sutherland, Ruth Garst, Lois Shively, Margaret Nickell, Violet Holter and Mesdames Margaret Anderson, Velma McConnell, Emma Kaufman, Margaret Christman, Shirley Bremer, Gertrude Andrew and Zue Nelson; with the honoree and the hostess.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT RACES BY GYNNIE

the track first opened, and then too, he had given him a sprint tighter the week before, while Lawrin had recently made the long ship from the East.

Specifically was a tighter horse than Lawrin, and the race unquestionably will do Lawrin a world of good. Ben Jones, who trains Lawrin for Herbert M. Woolf of Kansas City, said, "Boy, that certainly was a close call." Jones was easily the most excited spectator among the 45,000 which saw the race.

The winner was an odds-on favorite at 3/5, straight, and he earned $559 first money. His triumphs this year include victories over Bourbon King and Pastureized in the Flamingo Stakes at Florida, and Pastureized, incidentally, beat Dauber in the Belmont. He vanquished Dauber and Can't Wait in the Kentucky Derby, while The Chief was among the also rans. And Saturday The Chief whipped Mythical King and Staghound. So summing it up, Lawrin has beat all the important stakes winners this year in the 3-year-old division.

HERE AND THERE: Possibility of Seabiscuit shipping out from East seems remote. . . The chances are likewise slender that Myron Selznick will send out his 3-year-old, Can't Wait. . . It is said that he didn't want his charge to bump into Lawrin and Dauber at scale weight. . . For that matter, who does? . . . Neil McCarthy is planning another one of those annual "come-backs" for the gallant old turf warrior, Tick On. . . The horse, now in the stud, has earned a rest in the green pastures but they say he is happier at the racetrack. . . The stable population is today officially estimated at 375. . . L. E. Redman checked in yesterday from Tampan with four players. . . There are a few kick-backs on the 2:15 post time. Some of the horse players are arriving late for dinner. . . Frank Kelly, the track superintendent, is said to be a "slow track" man, favoring a racing strip with a good cushion on it. . . Mud horses and sore-footed gallopers will get a break. . . Five mares have been sent to the court of Rosemont, the Santa Anita Handicap winner. The Foxcatcher Farms also has sent mares to the imported stallion Blenheim.

Immediately preceding the bride was her flower girl, little Miss Janet Harlow, wearing a ruffled peach chiffon frock and carrying a white enameled basket of pastel flowers.

Relatives and close family friends were given opportunity to offer good wishes at an intimate reception in the Cave home, where flower decorations continued the color theme applied at the church. Mrs. Cave received in a gown of heather blue worn with white accessories including a cluster of gardenias.

When the new Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons left for a honeymoon trip to northern California, the bride was wearing a costume in tan and royal blue. They will return to make their home in Belvedere Gardens. ## 'BOSTON CRAB' EASY FOR MEXICAN STAR

Said to be one of the few wrestlers who can successfully resist the Boston Crab, one of the most painful leg holds in modern wrestling. Don Sebastian, Mexican wrestler and singer, will make his second appearance at the Orange County Athletic club Thursday night. Sebastian meets Fritz Hansen in the two-out-of-three falls semi-wind-up.

Sebastian and Hansen will wrestle on the same card that features another "team" wrestling match, the innovation that scored a hit last week. The squad of Pat O'Brien and Bob Keneston meets "Tarzan" Bob Montgomery and Ken Hollis. In the preliminary, Myron Selznick meets Benny Wilson.

When the new Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons left for a honeymoon trip to northern California, the bride was wearing a costume in tan and royal blue. They will return to make their home in Belvedere Gardens. Mr. Gibbons, like his bride, graduated from Santa Ana Junior college where he was affiliated with the Buccaneers. Mrs. Gibbons took part in various campus activities, including College Y. W. ## DRIVE CAREFULLY -SAVE A LIFE-

CLEAVAGE IN PARTY

The cleavage in the Democratic party becomes more apparent. On the one side are the New Dealers who follow the President 100 per cent. On the other side are the old-line Democrats who are basically opposed to many Administration objectives, activities and methods. During the early years these Democrats said little, and followed the White House line for the most part. But they have kicked over the traces now.

That is the fact that lies behind the bitter, internecine war in many Democratic state primary elections. The Administration, in the opinion of practically all of the commentators, is out to "get" those Democrats who have refused to follow White House advice in important legislation, such as the Supreme Court reorganization bill. Presidential aides and officials, such as Ickes, James Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins, endorse candidates—and the obvious inference is that their endorsements carry the Presidential authority.

So far, the Administration has won victories in Oregon and Florida. It has lost in Pennsylvania and Iowa.

It is now generally believed, by commentators, that the Republicans will gain about 80 house seats in November.

PINK LEMONADE POOR SUBSTITUTE

It is news when municipalities refuse to be seduced by "45 per cent cash gifts" from government bureaus to put private enterprise out of business.

San Jose, up near San Francisco, voted recently 14,000 to 2500 against municipal ownership of its water system in favor of continued private operation under public regulation. In addition, two veteran members of the city council who sponsored the municipal ownership project at a cost of $5,520,000 in bonds, were overwhelmingly defeated. This is real old-fashioned antic-socialistic news from a typical American city of about 75,000 persons.

Why did San Jose vote down municipal ownership of its water system? It had more than $7,000,000 left to its bonding credit and easily could have added the $5,520,000 to its bond load and municipal debt. But an impressive body of citizens disclosed to the public the real facts behind the debt-inflating program of the municipal ownership advocates. These citizens evidently proved beyond question that San Jose could not expect as good water or as good service under political management and increased public debt as it is now getting at the hands of private enterprise under public regulation.

Only by such courageous exposure of political hypocrisy can voters be disillusioned of beliefs that are assiduously cultivated in them by government-supported politicians, that any kind of government ownership is better than the best kind of private ownership.

Too often the citizens of our communities are blinded by the lure of "free" government money and "alluring" promises. But when the real facts are stripped bare of political camouflage as was done in San Jose, the citizens will go to the polls and sign a new declaration of independence.

Let us hope that San Jose has shown some other communities that pink lemonade of the circus variety generally is a poor substitute for the plain old-fashioned kind which isn't "colored" to attract the unwary.

"RUTHLESS POLITICS"

The anti-utility politicians have found a new weapon. It is part of the pump-priming bill, and is known as Section 201.

This section provides, among other things, that the Administrator of the new spending plan may advance money to municipalities—part of it as an outright gift, and part as a loan to permit building of their own electric power plants, even in competition with existing plants. The Senate Appropriations committee amended the section, to stop the use of public money for such duplication. Now a determined drive is being waged to do away with any such restriction.

To quote Arthur Krock of the New York Times: "It is a remarkable situation.... Only those who are willing to postpone and imperil recovery so that they may first strike down the private power business in the service of their ideology have been vocal against the restriction in Section 201.... The only visible explanation is ruthless politics."

That is a strong statement, but it certainly is no stronger than the situation justifies. Why, in all fairness and reason, should public funds, representing tax money paid to the Treasury by all the people, be used for projects which compete with any private business, or with any citizen's means of livelihood? Certainly there is no lack of projects which have no connection with business, such as roads, public buildings, parks and similar improvements, the building of which are strictly governmental functions. They would provide work, which is the object of the spending bill. And they would not take away from private enterprise orders and markets which are growing alarmingly thin.

If the effort to restrict Section 201, so that the advancement of federal funds for unnecessary electric systems will not be allowed, is beaten, "ruthless politics", that puts destruction of private enterprise before recovery, will have won a victory. And that victory will cost the country far more than people realize today.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON
World Copyright 1938
By King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Mr. Garner, the V. P. apparently was under the delusion that the anti-monopoly investigation was going to be an anti-monopoly investigation. He appointed:

Senator O'Mahoney, nominal author of the joint resolution authorizing the inquiry, who left the New Deal fold on the court issue and has now returned to stay, an anti-monopolist plus.

Senator Borah, the Republican originator of the anti-monopoly issue back in the 1936 campaign, an honest-to-heaven trust buster.

Senator King, non-New Dealer Democrat who has been a historic opponent of trusts.

Speaker Bankhead seems to have been somewhat better informed as to what was wanted in the way of investigating personnel. He chose: Rep. Hutton Summers, a philosopher and old-time Democrat who is just so-so on the New Deal, but quiet about it.

Rep. Eicher, who fought Thomas Corcoran's fight for Wearin in Iowa, a maverick Liberal, Roosevelt-on-everything - he could possibly think of.

Rep. Carroll Reece, a Tennessee Republican who has made an anti-trust study of his own, accurately described as "a conservative Liberal," a compromise choice between Michener of Michigan declined to take the Republican spot.

As six downtown representatives of the Arnold, Oliphant, Frank, Peterson, Lubin, Henderson pattern are to finish out the investigating committee, it is obvious that they will be in the majority. They needed only one of the six congressional appointees to give them 7 to 6 control, and they have him for sure in Mr. Eicher.

The extraordinary wording of the resolution gives this set-up an importance beyond surface indications. The resolution authorizes any investigator to choose an alternate who will be able to vote his proxy. Likewise a majority of the committee constitutes a quorum. As most of the congressional appointees will be busy getting re-elected or mending disaffection at home this summer, this furnishes an adequate device for downtown operation of the inquiry in their absence. In fact when they get a proxy from Mr. Eicher, the other 5 congressional appointees become immaterial.

And, as to the exact spot downtown where control lies, the resolution is equally specific. The investigators can spend the first $100,000 themselves, but they must get authority from Mr. Roosevelt for the other $400,000.

Incidentally also the resolution dropped, in its final form, any pretense that this was to be an anti-monopoly inquiry. The committee was called "the temporary national economic committee."

Despite these favorable auspices, some doubt is beginning to develop downtown whether the investigation will produce the new economic plan for which it is searching. The way things are going on the inside for the moment, it appears more certain to develop into a free-for-all brawl of economists.

Indeed, the downtowners already are into two general camps and several sub-camps. The big division is between the Arnold-Henderson-Lubin axemen who want to chop the trusts into small particles and the Berle-Currie-Patterson school of those who want government regulation and price control. The sub-camps reach into semi-socialism advocating government purchase of the railroads, utilities and natural resources.

The result will certainly be 100 volumes of testimony if nothing else.

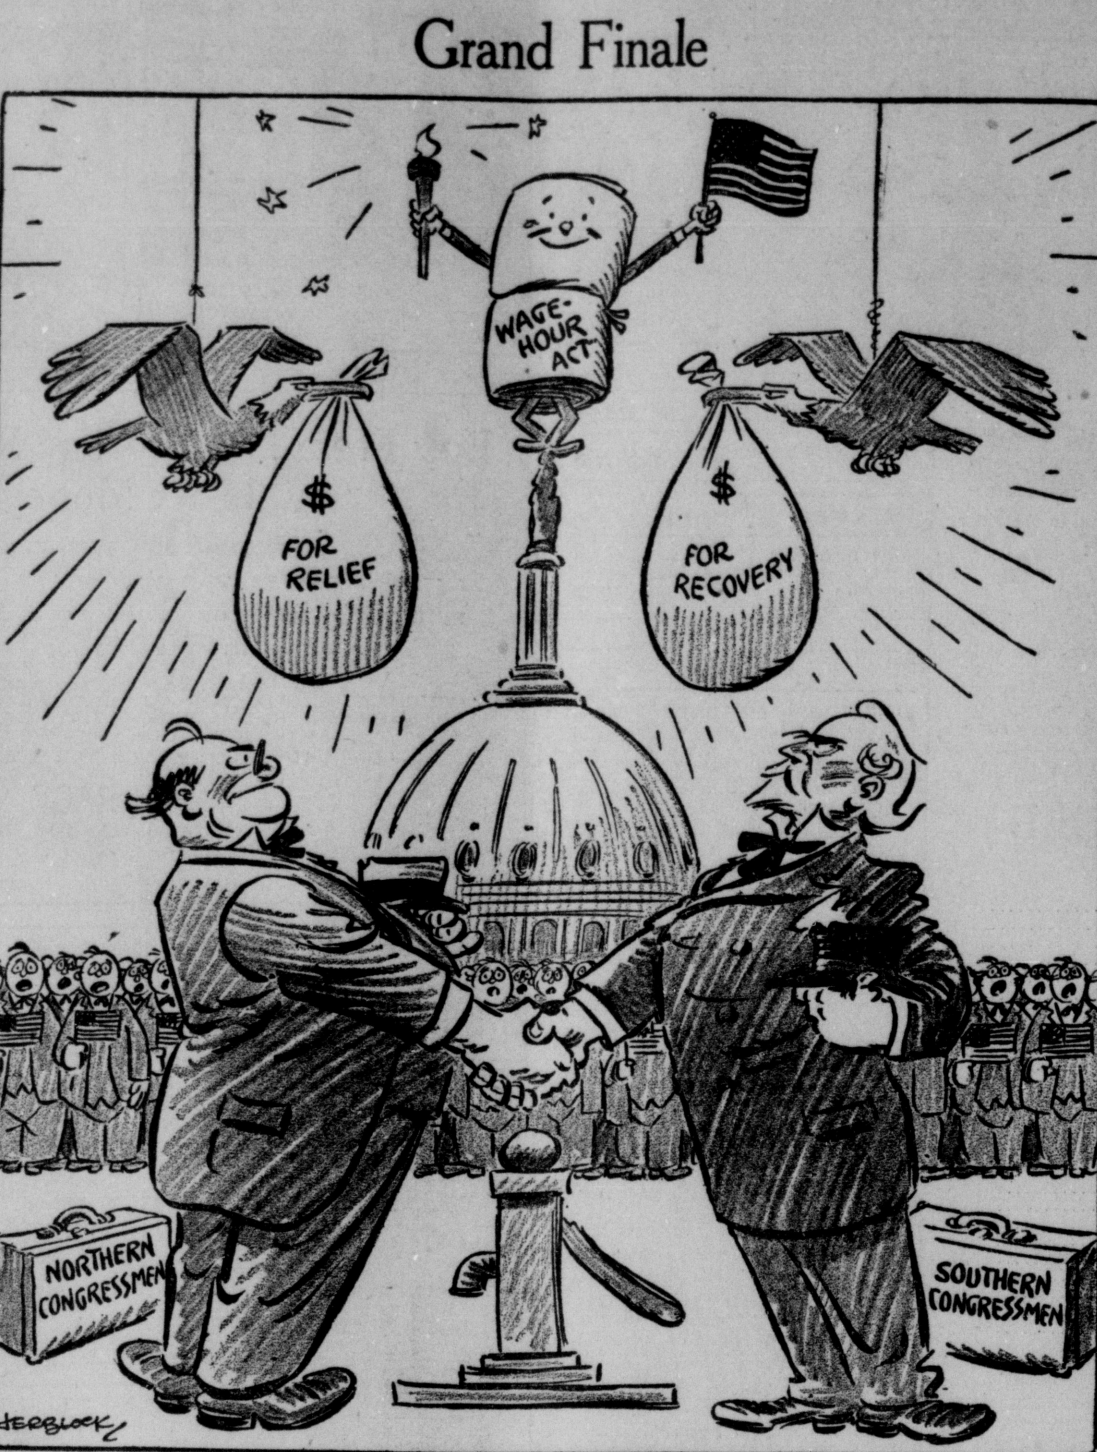

Mr. R.'s new economic adviser, A. Berle, is bringing to the inner councils a more practical economic slant than some of the other classroom economists who have preceded him. Significant is an article by him in the current university of Virginia quarterly. He says class-room economics must be balanced hereafter by consideration of the human element, implying this is the reason economics has failed before. He argues that wage and hour economic calculations, for instance, are no good unless they consider the resistance of labor to decreases and employers to increases, which may upset the best of theories.

Senator Minton may do considerable talking about investigating the press but darned little investigating. The senate disbursing office books show he has $1,400 left in the committee purse, hardly enough to hire a single investigator long enough to seize the private files of a single newspaper.

Talk, however, will serve his purpose. Idea is a political build-up to discount any damaging facts or attacks in the press, during the coming campaign.

Lesson in politics: Republican Rep. J. Ham Fish had a personal ambition to be a member of the New York world's fair commission, for the sentimental reason that one of his ancestors was a commissioner of the first New York fair. He went to the extent of getting the house republican caucus to endorse him as the Republican candidate.

But just about that time he was beating his fists against the New

Clearing House

To the editor of Sharing the Comforts of Life:

I find your column extremely interesting and conscientious. It seems to me about ten years ago those principals now printed and reprinted in the Sharing the Comforts column were more or less taken for granted, but since the Utopia minded New Deal came into power many people have drifted away from those fundamental principles, and I think, mostly because of New Deal tactics.

At present the orange growers are getting an eight dollar a ton "bonus" from the government for fruit selling below a certain price on the markets. Naturally the socialist minded person would consider getting such a bonus profit above what these oranges would bring on the ordinary market. But in reality this eight dollar per ton bonus will be apt to cost the grower nearer 16 dollars per ton after the bonded debt of the government, administration charges, and interest (of which he will pay his share) are paid. The grower is asked why he accepts the eight dollars per ton under these conditions. Of course the fact is if he does not accept the eight dollars, he will in time be out an estimated sixteen dollars. Most New Deal crop payment programs will work out the same way in the end.

In regard to the prorating of shipments of fruit one finds most growers in favor of the prorating system because it makes a more even flow of fruit to the various markets, which to my mind is the one and only advantage. Supposing a new fruit buyer, wanting a large order, was recommended to a certain packing house because of good fruit and good packing, wanting a shipment to a certain point in a given number of days at a price somewhat above the market. This packing house would very likely have its produce filled, they would be compelled to turn the order over to another house. The buyer would take a chance on getting poor fruit and also a poor packing job therefore probably cancelling the order. Such a marketing system tends to promote more "survival of the unfit."

Would like to see some discussion on this subject.

Respectfully, I remain,
OTTO CLAUSSEN,
Box 341, Garden Grove, Calif.

Fellow Citizens: This is a time of testing and trying which of course is not hopeless. The great, eternal hope in the breast of man, described as the "healing of the nations," will be fine come—the appearing of the Lord—who alone can completely control human nature which was a part of His creation.

Individuals right and wrongly headed will take part but the Creator is supreme over right and wrong. Man can only use right as he sees it to this end. Permanent peace and economic prosperity are the same article, and will be.

Deal and all its works daily on the floor of the House. Speaker Bankhead went to Republican Leader Snell, asked him to suggest another Republican candidate. Snell declined, saying he was bound by the caucus. Bankhead observed that he was not. He appointed a New York Rep. Jimmy Wadsworth. . .

"Fools on a Powder Keg"

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Professor of Economics, New York University

As a part of the government's program to encourage business recovery, the United States Treasury, on April 14, transferred $1,392,000,000 of gold, held in the inactive gold account, to the Federal Reserve banks. On April 16, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System reduced member bank reserve requirements by approximately 1/2 per cent, and thus added about $750,000,000 to the excess reserves of the banks.

These member banks. This raised the excess reserves of member banks to approximately $2,500,000,000—the largest volume of excess reserves held by these banks since before the reserve requirements were first raised on August 16, 1935.

The theory of this return of gold certificates to the Federal Reserve banks and of increasing the already excessive surplus reserves of member banks was that an increase in the supply of currency would help to encourage business recovery.

This theory was part of that brand of monetary thinking which has characterized the New Dealers. The notion, in brief, is that if the currency supply is increased prices will rise and prosperity will return. This theory always overlooks the fact that the effectiveness of a currency depends not only upon its supply but also upon its velocity or the rapidity with which it is used.

This velocity is a matter of public psychology, and that is a factor which the politicians cannot always regulate as they desire. Today there is widespread pessimism regarding the future, and the consequence is that the velocity of our currency is at the lowest level on record.

The velocity of the currency will increase when confidence returns. Or, it can be increased by the government undermining the people's confidence in the future value of our paper money. People would then rush to spend their money in order to convert it into goods which would rise in value as the currency depreciates.

It is the generation of a fear velocity that must be avoided, because, after people have spent their savings, rising prices quickly eat into their remaining cash supply and incomes. People soon feel the pinch of high prices, and complain about a scarcity of money as they are forced to sell their previously accumulated property which they can no longer hold. It is this process that impoverishes people during a period of currency inflation.

It is a confidence velocity that is achieved only by true justice and equity having put down unrighteousness and evil. The evil tree of regimented government, full of class legislation, shall finally fall—be rooted out—the axe of righteousness laid to the roots as John the Baptist foretold. But stubborn humans will follow imaginary leaders offering foolish remedies, which will, when followed, turn the world upside down and "empty it out." This has happened before in history. Now, due to the interdependence of the nations, ease of communication, labor saving devices, etc., the speed of destruction, the completeness of the emptying out, the finality of the work is certain. The Lord will bring about the control of evil and then its final destruction by a new creature, a new creation upon the earth.

Pure gold will come out of the dross of worldliness. There are

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Somebody is doing one of the best recorded publicity jobs of press agenting for the Honorable Joseph P. Kennedy, our unstockinged Ambassador to the Court of St. James. This is no knock at Joe. He is, as usual, doing a realistic job. In fact, for once in our history, I believe that from the President down through the Secretary of State to the whole diplomatic service, we have the ace team of international poker players—not only in our history but in comparison with the rest of the world.

Will Rogers said: "We never lost a war or won a conference" and it was the literal truth. We were the international fat boy and the favorite indoor sport was to outdo us for our incompetent foreign representatives and swindle us out of our candy. We won their World War for them, next paid for it, and then, through silly foreign loans to "backward and crippled nations," supposed to sustain our export trade, kept them going until 1929 and, when we withdrew that tribute, the economic structure of the world collapsed.

I doubt if anything like that could be repeated with this foreign crowd handling our foreign relations.

Our agricultural price and relief policies are automatically ruining our export trade for farm products—national disaster—but that is through a domestic rather than a foreign policy.

The diplomatic service is doing so good a job that Uncle Sam is more respected in every foreign chancellery than ever before. I believe Mr. Kennedy is perfectly competent to play Seven Toed Pete with all the card sharps of Downing Street.

But this press agency that has him coming home with a war debt settlement before breakfast, a pound and dollar devaluation over the lunch table, a military and naval accord in the evening and catching the ship back to London before midnight, is bad.

The war debts are not written off. War threatens Europe and no European nation could fight an important war without first assuring credit here and our "benevolent neutrality." Modern war depends too much on motor-driven vehicles on land, sea and air and the products of petroleum—of which we control three-fourths of the world's output.

In the poker game of arranging any such supply, those war debts are axes back-to-back in our hands. With the world in its present state, it would be silly to make the only kind of settlement now possible—a promise to pay, say, 10 per cent of the principal sum in Kathleen Mavourneen securities—"It may be years and it may be forever." It would just be trading one worthless promise for 10 per cent in another worthless promise.

Anyway, until this question of dollar devaluation and international stability of money is settled, what booms we would be to make a war debt settlement on a greatly reduced basis without knowing whether we were eventually to be paid in token, wampum or hokum!

There are times in international relations when the existence of a debt is of more value than its discharge. It is a good time to read Kipling's "Peace of Dives."

The Lord let cunning Dives out of Hell to prevent a threatened world war being stirred up by Satan. This he did by getting each nation so far in debt to him for rearmament and so far dependent on him for supplies, that tho' all nations were armed none dared draw a sword. Said he to roaring Satan:

"... do not gold and hate abide at the heart of every Magic, yes, and senseless war, beside? With gold and fear and hate, I have harnessed state to state, And with hate and fear and gold their hatreds are tied."

With those war debts and our economic supremacy, we may hold in our hands the peace of the world.

When touched or shaken, the "sensitive plant" folds its leaves and droops, but if the shaking is continued, the plant recovers from the shock, opens its leaves and does not respond to further disturbance.

Many signs of right thinking among the salt of the earth, but much of the salt so-called has lost its savor. Our religion, being primarily only a man interpretation—is not effective. Our theories of government and education are subject to human error and over-balance with inherited evils of former times.

We have not yet admitted the Golden Rule; we do not see that it is operating in the great struggle in the universe for the control of human nature.

Man controls but not himself. He has not learned to live with his fellow man, so his control is empty-ending. In days of trouble and nights of pain for himself, his evil economic creations, trees of government, are cut down as Babylon was, leaving their roots in human nature to await the grub axe before a new tree can be planted.

The builders are again about to reject the corner stone—the all-embracing Christ, the truth, about which Pilate questioned.

The struggle is not over—the lesson not yet learned—but Faith, Hope and Charity (Love) are eternal—they cannot be destroyed. God made these three safe from the hands of man.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

IF TRUE, LOOK OUT!
Harry Scherman, in the book, "The Promises Men Live By," makes a statement at the conclusion of a chapter analyzing the cause of cycles and depressions which, if true, should be alarming to every thinking man in America.

We quote: "What can ALWAYS BE OBSERVED AS HAPPENING is that, when the diminution in volume of exchange once begins, it keeps on proceeding UNTIL THE LARGER PART OF THE OLD PROMISES THAT ARE IN QUESTION ARE SETTLED ONE WAY OR THE OTHER. Either they are completed, or they are not. Either the debt which is in doubt is cancelled, and the loss to the trusting person becomes established as a fact; or it is not."

Scherman points out very definitely through his book that what we use as money is not money but only promises to pay money; that all the debts are promises to pay money.

If it is true that until it is determined how much these promises to pay, which we call money, is actually worth to those people who have contracts to receive it, then what the dollar will buy must be determined before we can again have a permanent increase in business.

And it will be noted that this author, who is quite a student of depressions, uses the words, "always can be observed as happening." This is equivalent to saying that there cannot be a change for better until the public determines how much wealth the Federal Government will be able to give to those holding its bonds and "promises to pay money" as money.

GIVING IS DANGEROUS

It might be well to observe whether those people who are always desirous of giving something to someone are not the kind of people worthy of leadership. It quite often will be found that this is the only way they have of making themselves important and recognized by their fellowmen and satisfying their ego and vanity. Invariably these people are the ones who eventually want someone else to do the giving and they want to do the directing of the giving. They seldom really want to give anything of any great importance themselves. Their theory is to get some law that will take from one and give to another.

Even if it is a philosophy of life that they are trying to give or influence others to adopt, unless it is the philosophy of the Universal Rule being the Golden Rule—the fundamental principle of democracy and Christianity—it might be well not to take their Utopias too seriously.

Probably the biggest harm in the world has come from well-meaning people who were possessed with some belief that they had some magical way of eliminating misery and suffering. They have often confused the great middle class of honest people and caused them to enact legislation that brings about the conditions we now find the people in the United States suffering from. In this case, when a man is trying to give you an idea, do not follow the old homely phrase, "Never look a gift-horse in the mouth," but analyze the theory the man is trying to give you and determine whether it would apply universally before you join him in his theories.

That my weak hand may equal my firm faith,
And my life practice more than my tongue saith,

HOW TO CREATE A DEPRESSION
—PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S RECIPE
(From Financial News)

(Chapter 2)
Mr. Roosevelt having taken unto himself economic responsibilities which no constitutional President could hope to discharge, went in search of skilled and sympathetic "economic" assistants. He recruited a tribe of professors, lecturers, lawyers and social workers, none of whom had ever been touched by the pitch of profit-making. Though everyone had his own nostrum, all were united in deploring the capitalist system. These new civil servants ran to and from the President's office, which became the operating theater of American industry.

Mr. Roosevelt viewed with wonder and approbation their experiments on Uncle Sam's economic body. They tapped it here, they prodded it there to test the reactions of an unsocial organism. No one bothered about the fact that the patient upon whom the experiments were conducted had not only to satisfy the President's curiosity, but must also pay the professor's fees, and provide the means of livelihood of 130,000,000 people.

The contradictory policies of Mr. Roosevelt and his professors would account for any depression. They challenged the truism that the capitalist system cannot function without a regular supply of capital. They launched a raid on the undistributed profit surplus from which any well-managed business finances plans for expansion. The Ford Company was a good example of how a business can be developed from surplus profits. But the President and his advisers were most anxious to curb men like Ford. They wanted the tax on undistributed profits had the merit of not only halting economic royalists—it also provided a large but uncertain revenue for other New Deal experiments. The fact that it hit most sound businesses in America mattered not. It was just a coincidence that it was a body blow to the small businesses which are cherished by the President. No one can be expected to legislate for coincidences. . .

New Deal scholars had reached another important conclusion regarding capital. They held it wise to discourage investors from providing new capital for industry. They secured President's approval for a series of regulations which for a time hamstrung the new issues market.

While his conductors were shackling industry and finance, Mr. Roosevelt was not idle. He was leading the attack upon the utility corporations and the railroads. His vendetta against the utilities defies description. . . He set the government up as their competitor, he encouraged the trade unions to attack them. To him the railroads were several degrees less wicked. And so he contented himself by instigating the trade unions to increase their costs while encouraging the interstate Commerce Commission to show a masterly inactivity in considering railways' application to increase rates. It is difficult to estimate the unemployment caused by this frantic feud. . .

Roosevelt's punitive mind is mirrored in the drastic extensions of the capital gains taxes. Through them he has certainly paid off old scores. The fact that he has also restricted investment and sterilized many types of desirable enterprise worries him not at all. . . Mr. Roosevelt, like most vocal humanitarians, is a great hater. . .
